

Second Helpings celebrates 20th anniversary

It's the 20th anniversary for Second Helpings in Colborne, the Big Brothers, Big Sisters Northumberland-run second and clothing store.

To celebrate, there's a party Friday, Apr. 13 and Sat. Apr. 14 with cake and refreshments, door prizes, a bowl full of discounts ($1 to $10 off) plus a two-for-one sale.

The store, which annually wins awards for the seasonal window décor, is staffed with volunteers. It is a friendly community fixture on King Street East.

"Our stores provide much needed revenues for mentoring programs for our youth," notes executive director Barb Keenan.

Council meets back at town hall

Cramahe Township council meetings will no longer be held at the Keeler Centre after the next Apr. 16 meeting.

"As I recall, we decided to come to the Keeler Centre to see what we thought," Mayor Marc Coombs said at council last week. "The last council had much larger

Ryan Knapman and Kaitlyn Lewis are also charged with production of marihuana.

Parking changes set for Cramahe

By JOYCE CASSIN
Special to the Chronicle

Removing parking from areas deemed unsafe and removal of no parking signs from other areas resulted from a housecleaning and updating of the Cramahe Township traffic bylaw by bylaw officer Jim Harris.

Included in the updated bylaw is a no parking zone along the west side of Elgin St. from Simmons St. to the Colborne Creek Bridge.

"I have added in the south side of King St. W. from Division Street to the west side of Toronto Street in front of 1 King Street West as a No Parking zone," Mr. Harris told council. "This is an unusual intersection, and vehicles parked on the south side can interfere with traffic."

There will be no parking allowed within three metres on either side of the pedestrian walkway into Victoria Park, but the no parking signs on Arena Road have been removed as well as the handicapped parking at the old arena site.
