

Harold's Histories December 25, 1916

Written by Bob Owen

Saturday, 24 December 2011 23:50

On a day when we all take time to reflect, this article from December, 1916 reveals that it was not all peace and good will on the Canadian front in the Great War.

At the same time high school students saw their marks posted in the paper for all to see. Not many made the 675 marks needed for the honour roll and there was no shielding those who failed to make the 540 passing grade.