Despite the downturn in the economy, despite costly changes in the pharmacy business imposed by the provincial government, Cramahe's pharmacist, Steve Bowskill will once more host the annual Easter Egg Hunt in Victoria Square on April 7.

We've said it before and we say it again. We need local businesses. They provide us with more than retail goods and services. They quietly contribute to groups and individuals in the community. They are the first people we turn to when we need a donation or assistance.

Do locally bought products cost more? Probably not when you add in your gas at well over a dollar a litre, factor in the wages of the people they pay to work in their businesses, and add in the countless dollars they contribute behind the scenes.

Try to imagine Castleton without the general store or Colborne without its mainstay shops - no groceries, hardware, pharmaceuticals, restaurants, fruit, vegetables and meat products - all provided by local people.

They need you as much as you sometimes need them - shop local and help make Cramahe a better place to work and live.
