CPS students take the 'Take Me Outside Challenge'

Colborne Public School heeded the call from David Suzuki Oct. 29 with his call for young people and their teachers to commit to spending an hour outside on that day to help raise awareness of the importance of unplugging — Canadian youth are spending an average of almost eight hours a day in front of screens — and spending more time outside.

Participating in the 'Take Me Outside Challenge,' the students in Colborne enjoyed diverse learning activities outdoors that day, from music to art to athletics, and the whole school participated.
