

Adult Raspberry Pi MakerCamp

Saturday's at Cramahe Township Public Library

Learn to Code

Its impossible to deny the fact that computers are all around us. From the car you drive to the heat in your home, computers are involved in your day to day life.

Increasingly we are relying on devices created and programmed by others, but what if you made and programmed the devices in your life?

It's not just Programming

Maker's are the people who shape the world around them, often with the aid of electronics. Instead of buying that smart lock, what if you built your own? In this course we will learn how to program from the beginning and eventually apply it to controlling the physical world around us.
