

MINES

The life of our Markstay community has necessarily been greatly influenced by its proximity to Sudbury City where two major companies, International Nickel and Falconbridge Nickel Mines, are located. These produce between them some 90% of the world's supply of nickel.

One of the fastest growing and most progressive young cities in Canada, Sudbury offers unexcelled opportunities to those living within easy range, such as Markstay.

Many of our residents commute daily to work in the mines. Wages are among the highest in Canada and an eight hour day permits employees to engage in part time work along other lines, if they so desire.

When our children finish public school and wish to attend high, free transportation is provided for them with many attendant advantages.

They are encouraged to belong to the library, attend shows and go to hockey games and other sports events at the large civic Area.

The excellent bus service, apart from those who own cars, allows adults as well to participate in events of special interest. Many housewives do their grocery shopping there and follow the advertisements in the Sudbury Daily Star for the various items offered in the Stores and Supermarkets.
