A Family Tribute To George

A quiet man by nature
Not much for conversation,
But the message in his handshake
Would stir any congregation.

That handshake was so powerful,
Sharp contrast to a person so meek.
All the force of feelings pent up
In the words he couldn't speak.

If you were lucky enough to experience it,
Though it almost bent you to the ground.
You knew the intensity of the grip
Was the most sincere you'd ever found.

When we were young and misbehaving
He never lost his cool.
To be fair and honest in a dignified way
Was his most important rule.

As a farmer he was busy
Planting crops and cutting wood.
Every spring was maple syrup time
And helping neighbours all he could.

He took pride in his Rural Mail Route
And delivered the mail with care.
No matter what the weather,
He always got it there.

Driving a school bus was another task,
He enjoyed every minute.
Giving keen attention to the condition of his bus
And all the children in it.

His horses and ponies were a special delight.
He called each one by name.
The spirit of kindness and respect shown to them
Was as to people, always the same.

There was never a hint of bitterness,
About the stroke that laid him low.
All the anguish, pain, frustration,
But he never let us know.

All thru the suffering and loss of his mate
He never uttered a word of grief.

He bore it all so silently.
Too deep to get underneath.

He knew she was slipping away.
He scarcely left her side.
And until he could join her beyond the wall,
His time he did patiently bide.

And now he is with her up there
They are re-united I know.
The love and devotion they shared on this earth
Will once again blossom and grow.

Another break in the Bowers chain
Of which we're so proudly a part.
But our memories of each will be rich and full Stored forever in our heart.
