

PORT PERRY STAR — Tuesday, December 12,

James Duncan was presented with a barometer last Friday evening by Freda Appleton, a gift on behalf of the people who work at Central Seven Industries in Port Perry. James also received a wooden carved loon from Central Seven employees and a print from the Board of Directors in recognition of his ten years as executive director with Central Seven Association for Community Living. James left Central Seven this fall to manage the vocational and recreational programs at the Whitby Hospital. The presentations were made as Central Seven held its annual Christmas Party at the Latcham Hall in Port Perry.
