Threshing was a neighbourly event in the 1890's when this picture was taken on John Holly's farm in Hagarty Township, near Killaloe. The men were from Irish, Polish and German families, and, with several teams of horses powering the threshing mill, they combined their efforts to fill the granary.

Matthew Noack, R.R. 2, Killaloe, who loaned this picture to The Leader, identifies some of the men as follows: William Lisk, Antoine Borutskie, his father Matthew Noack, Herman Wolfgram, John Blaedow, Matthew Okum, John Holly, his uncle August Noack and brothers Albert and William Noack.
