CHRISTMAS EDITION

Feature of the Month: by Elsie Blay

Pictured below is the story of Christmas. Bill Whalley Jr. made the manger and his wife Carla stained it. Danny Maxwell of Laurentian Pottery donated the clay for the children to make the figures of Mary, Joseph, the Baby Jesus, the three Wisemen, the shepherds and the animals. Then they painted these figures. It was long tedious work for small hands. This was all under the supervision of Debbie Dellman. Then Danny fired them in kilns. Some of the figures might be a little bug-eyed or missing a bit here and there but you have to consider the love and time that went into this project. There were about twenty children from the community that were involved. What a wonderful way to learn the Christmas story. Congratulations to all who participated for a job well done, as the picture cannot do justice to the effort of the young people.
