Oldest Resident Dead

PETER LEMON, aged 91, Alton's oldest resident, died at his home last night. Born on third line, Caledon West, Mr. Lemon clearly recalled pioneer days when he served as a fireman on the old Credit Valley Railway. An interesting tale Mr. Lemon used to tell was the one of taking 40 days to make a trip from Owen Sound to Orangeville when the old wood burning train ran into a snow storm. The funeral was held today to Alton Cemetery.

KANNAWIN ELECTED
1934
DEPUTY-REEVE

McBride, McLeish and Evans Win Three Council Seats in Caledon.

Slightly over 1050 votes were polled in Caledon's municipal contest on Monday. In the fight for the Deputy-Reeve's chair, Sam. Kannawin of the 1934 council won rather handily from his colleague, William Hawkins. The candidates live in the Alton ward and here the vote was split pretty evenly, Kannawin emerging from the fray with a lead of 11 votes. Elsewhere the winner polled substantial majorities. Kannawin, who has a lengthy municipal experience, was better known than his opponent. Hawkins, too, declined to do any canvassing. The winner is an experienced man and a careful administrator.

SAM KANNAWIN
Municipal veteran, elected Deputy-Reeve of Caledon on Monday.

Albert D. McBride, of Belfountain, led the field in the race for council seats. He polled a bumper vote in his home division and rolled up another heavy vote in Alton, also running well in the other divisions with the exception of the Caledon East ward. He was followed by Alex. McLeish, another new man, who ran particularly well in the Caledon ward and polled a good vote over the township. The fight for third place was between T. R. Evans, of Caledon East, and W. J. Trathen, of the 1934 council. Evans won out, solely by virtue of the heavy vote he received in his home division. Elsewhere Trathen had the advantage, but his lead was not sufficient to offset the large Evans majority at Caledon East. The winner has had previous municipal experience in Caledon. Norman Storey, of Belfountain, finished fifth and last place went to Hugh Potter, a newcomer in Caledon municipal politics. The results follow:

	Reeve
	Hawkins	Kannawin
Belfountain	39	119
Inglewood	38	97
Caledon East	20	137
Mono Mills	26	38
Caledon	80	101
Alton	107	118
Cataract	36	40
Melville	27	33
	373	683
Maj. for Kannawin—	310.
