Miss Bruce County with Tracy Buckingham, Sherry Storms and Trudy Ruetz

Not only was she the choice of the judges but Miss Ursula Oltman was certainly the crowd's favorite as the tumultuous cheering testified when she was named Miss Bruce County at Connaught Park on Tuesday night. Miss Oltman, named Miss Kincardine on Friday night, edged out seven other contestants from throughout the county.

First princess was Miss Teeswater, 17 year-old Sue MacKay and second princess was Miss Paisley, 19 year-old Linda Flanders. Judges for the event were Harvey Linklater of Kincardine, John Strong of CKNX and William Fetter of the K-W Record.

Miss Oltman received a cheque for $500 with cheques of $200 and $100 going to the princesses. She was crowned by reunion chairman Harold Linklater and congratulated in a fitting manner, with a kiss, by entertainer Tommy Common.

The Miss Bruce County contest was organized and directed by Anna Meyer of CKNX with assistance from master of ceremonies Johnny Brent.

Other contestants were Miss Chippewa Hill, Donna Nashcawa; Miss Warton, Sandy Usher; Miss Lucknow, Valerie Morningstar; Miss Southampton, Linda Ripley and Miss Ripley, Judy Hodge.

Knox Church welcomes Old Boys

Knox Presbyterian Church welcomed a huge congregation on Sunday. Guest speaker was former minister, Rev. William Mitchell of Etobicoke. The organist was Mrs. John Fox (Patricia Lambert) and music was provided by a former quartette of Gordon Campbell, Richard MacKay, John Stone and James Young. Mrs. Charles Lee (Mary Walsh) and Mr. James Young sang solos. Miss Janet MacFarlane was organist for the quartette.
