

An official symbol for the Beamsville Centennial has been chosen from among a number of entries in a design contest held by the Centennial Co-ordinating Committee.

FLEA MARKET SUCCESS

Dave Mowbray and Maggie Keates were busy all Friday setting up tables in the Centennial Arena for the weekend's Giant Flea Market. Without any qualifications, it can be said that the pair worked the hardest to make the event the success it was.
