

V18-3 (with handwritten marks)

Lady of Heart
by: Pat MacMasters

Lady of heart, heart of a lady,
 She's got that kind of lovin' that drives me crazy.
 Late at night when the sun goes down,
 We're lyin' in bed and you can't hear a sound.
 She holds my hand and whispers in my ear,
 She says, "I love you honey, lets cuddle dear."
 I roll over, she feels my body heat,
 I wrap my legs around her little cold feet.
 Thinking of words said so softly and so sweet,
 I wisp away her hair and I kiss her on the cheek.
 You know men seem to have a lot of doubt,
 They can never really figure out what love is all about.
 But those gentle words she whispers in my ears,
 She says, "I love you honey,"
 It makes everything so clear.
 I'm in love, yes there's no doubt,
 With a lady I adore,
 A lady that's the most...
 Lady of heart, heart of a lady.
 Shes got that kind of lovin' that drives me crazy yaaaaa whoooooo
 You know gentle little words I whisper in her ears,
 Brings her sweet little thoughts,
 That bring sweet little tears.
 She gives me all her lovin',
 There ain't no holding back.
 'Cause she's the kind of lady that love is where it's at.
 I'm so lucky to have a lady I can trust, a lady I adore, a lady that's the most..
 She's opened up my heart and I can let her lovin' in,
 And now mv days are blessed with the lovin' that she gives.

IN MEMORY OF

Pat MacMasters
Beloved husband of Dianne (née Dahonick)
Dear father of Jesse James, Ryan & Chrissy

BORN

November 8, 1955
Cornwall, Ontario

DIED

January 4, 2012
Kincardine, Ontario

FUNERAL SERVICE

Kincardine United Church
2:00 p.m., Tuesday, January 10, 2012

OFFICIATING

Pastor Kenneth Craig

MacMasters will be missed by friends and customers alike

From Page 1

A reception will be held following the funeral at the Bruce Steakhouse in downtown Kincardine.

Pat was described by friends and coworkers as a kind, generous and dear friend to many, as well as an outstanding employer and businessman.

"I was treated like family no matter what was going on at the shop," wrote a fellow employee. "He was one of a kind and was always running and never walking. Great times that will always be remembered."

"Pat did so much for so many and we are fortunate to have known him," wrote another.

"Pat was a wonderful person and will be missed by everyone that knew him. He touched people with his kind sincerity and caring and (always) happy demeanor," wrote a third, along with about 70 messages of condolence on the Davey Linklater Funeral Home website.

Even his competitors spoke highly of him. Mike Pierson, sales manager at Dennis Pierson Chevrolet, knew Pat for over 20 years as a "well-rounded guy, a straight-shooter and a very sharp businessman."

"He was always great to talk to," said Pierson. "Although he was my competitor, he always worked well at what he did. He succeeded in life and did it all on his own."

Pat is survived by his wife

Dianne, children Jesse James (Denise) MacMasters of Toronto, Ryan MacMasters (Brooke Kempton) of Kincardine and Crissy MacMasters (Brock Lowry) of RR4 Kincardine and their soon to arrive son and first grandchild. He is also survived by his mother Ilene MacMasters of Kincardine, siblings, loving in-laws, aunts, and extended Dahonick and Wasdell families. He is predeceased by his father Bob MacMasters.

Memorial donations can be contributed to the Kincardine Food Bank or Women's House Serving Bruce and Grey, as expressions of sympathy.

MacMasters Motors owner Pat MacMasters passed away suddenly on Jan 4, 2012. He was 56. (SUBMITTED)