Helping out

The Oxford Community Foundation presented $850 to the Alzheimer Society of Oxford to allow the organization to purchase a flat-screen television for their training room. The Alzheimer Society of Oxford has over 250 volunteers that contribute close to 5,000 hours per year. Many of these volunteers need to be trained to perform their responsibilities in supporting individuals with Alzheimer's and their caregivers. Mary Anne Silverthorn, chair of the OCF grants committee, right, presented the funds to Shelley Green, executive director of the Alzheimer Society of Oxford.
