Steve and Ruth raised two children, Jason and Kara, and have one granddaughter, Stephanie.

On top of all this, Steve still found time to serve the village for two terms on Township Council in 1982, three terms on the former Tavistock Public Utility Commission, and on the Police Services Board until amalgamation in 1996. As past president of the Tavistock Men's Club and chairman of the Retail Committee, in cooperation with the Tavistock Chamber of Commerce, Steve was instrumental in beautifying the downtown.

Steve is also a past president of Tavistock and Area Horticultural Society and served as the food convenor for Tavistock's 150th Anniversary celebrations in 1998.

When his church, Tavistock Mennonite, planned its addition, Steve devoted all his time to the project and has since become the church's maintenance man. He has served on church council for finance, food, and maintenance. As well, he does maintenance at The Maples retirement home.

Each one of these Senior Award recipients has a special connection to the life of the village and area, and the entire community is much better for it, said Mayor McKay.

The afternoon of food, fellowship and entertainment was highlighted by the instrumental, singing, dancing and acting skills of Kassidy Davies and Brayden Ellis of Woodstock. The two Grade 8 students are both involved in K2K Productions of Youth for Christ and have performed in many plays and festivals. Brayden played the electric piano and performed several numbers. Kassidy sang several of her favourite tunes as well as some show tunes from productions they have been in. Together, Kassidy and Brayden performed It's Possible and Alone in the Universe from Suessical the musical and danced to Yesterday by The Beatles.

Students from Tavistock Public School assisted Institute members in serving sandwiches and refreshments to end the day's program.
