

Walkerton contestant first runner-up at CNE

Sarah Brown, representing the Walkerton Agricultural Society, was first runner-up in the Ambassador of the Fairs competition at the CNE.

The competition took place Aug. 20. Sarah competed against 96 other contestants.

The Walkerton woman was a contestant in the Ontario Miss Mid West Pageant in July.

Amanda Hickling, crowned this year's Ontario Miss Mid West Queen, placed in the top seven at the CNE where she represented her home fair in Feversham.

Amanda will be a special guest Friday, Aug. 25 in Toronto at the Miss Canada International Pageant. The pageant will be televised live. In 2001 Amanda will have the opportunity to compete in the Miss Canada Pageant if she chooses to do so. Attending the pageant Aug. 25 will allow her to see the event live and to make her decision for 2001.

The Ontario Miss Mid West Pageant is proud to announce the success of both women, and is honoured to have them place so well at the CNE.

Walkerton is the home of the Ontario Miss Mid West Pageant, making Sarah's success a special honour for her community.

This year's Ambassador of the Fairs is Julie Warren of the Glenco Agricultural Society.

SCN/Kerr photo

Royal honour

Sarah Brown, representing the Walkerton Agricultural Society, was first runner-up in the CNE Ambassador of the Fairs competition Aug. 20. This photo was taken of Sarah during the recent Ontario Miss Mid West pageant.