Bruce Women's Institute gives to outdoor education campaign

Bruce County Women's Institute representatives presented a cheque for $3,500 to the Inspired by Nature campaign — the largest single donation to date from a service club. The campaign is trying to raise $2.4 million to replace facilities at the Bluewater District School Board's Institute for Outdoor Education and Environmental Studies. From left are Clive Card, outdoor education centre principal, David Inglis, campaign chair, Linda Freiburger, Bruce County WI president, Lois Freiburger, WI past president and Pat Calhoun, public relations officer.

Brant/Greenock Institute distributes emergency vials

Stella Hoffarth hosted the May meeting of the Brant Greenock Women's Institute with 16 members present.

Business from the April minutes included a report of the pie table at the Walkerton Home and Garden Expo. The ladies also gave away the 911 emergency info vials that Wanita Hollands has been assembling. The vial idea came from the Big Brothers of Kincardine. It was suggested to have a table at a local store and sell tickets on the fundraiser for the Outdoor Education Centre in Oliphant.

As one of the hosting branches for the District Annual on May 24 in Elmwood, the ladies arranged for the muffins, jam and door prizes for the day. Clive Card, Principal at the Outdoor Education Centre will be the guest speaker. Ladies turned in their tickets for the draw to be made that day.

The branch has been invited by Solway Institute to a Come and Go Tea on the occasion of their 50th Anniversary on May 30 at the Brant Township building from 3-4 pm.

Correspondence also included a thank you from The Little Royal Fair board for the donation to the school program judging events.
