

BURGESSVILLE W. I. ANNUAL MEETING 1965-66

Another year has rolled around, 'tis Annual Meeting time.
Perhaps it would not be a miss to read a little rhyme.
As we look back across the years of our own institute,
Success has surely been with us and borne us much good fruit.

So on we go from year to year, our efforts never done.
We try to serve as best we can, mixed with a bit of fun.
With each member playing her little part, our organization to rout,
Is what makes the wheels of success turn round and feeds our institute.

As we think to-day of our past three years, we cannot help but feel,
That the presidency has been well done by our retiring Ruth McNeal.
Prior to this our institute helped both the poor and needy
With the leadership of our Past President in the person of Emma McCready.

But time rolls on, we can't stand still.
To-day we have the President's chair to fill,
And one year from now, we know we can say
That this has been well done by May (Dennis).

Another office quite worthy of mention,
Should we have a vacation or continued retention,
This important office must be held in high measure
And that is no other than Secretary-Treasurer.

The minutes are kept and correspondance recorded,
The money counted out, but never is hoarded.
Ruth Austin holds this office, 'tis she we can thank
For the books so well kept and the cash in the bank.

Mrs. Charlie Kelly and Mrs. Earl Jaques,
As for Health & Home Economics, both have what it takes
To act as Conveners for this important position
And for their good work we make recognition.

Now let's carry on, we can't stop with these.
We have Agriculture and Canadian Industries.
The ones who convene this we would like you to know,
Are Mrs. Floyd Roberts and Clifford, Mrs. Joe.

Let's keep rolling along, there's no time for vacation
Till we deal with citizenship and also Education.
With these ladies in charge, we don't want any remover.
They are Mrs. Wray Broad and Mrs. Doug. Hoover.

Oh! yes, something else we must not overlook,
The members who are busy with the Tweedsmuir Book.
They're sitting up nights and taxing their brain,
Sometimes it looks like they'll go clear insane.

They're digging up history and researching for stuff,
The way they are working they should soon have enough.
Current events are upper most in their mind,
Always looking around for something else they can find.

With this Mrs. Dickinson is playing her part,
The importance of which she sure takes to heart.
Whenever they feel a wee bit at a loss
They turn to the Curator, Emma McCready, their boss.

Should they get a bit worried and their brows need some wiping,
They should think of Ada Morley at home doing the typing.
Of course they are grateful and extend their best wishes,
But what of her husband, who washes her dishes.

Another Committee that must not be left,
Some times people get sick and occasionally bereft.
Some flowers or a card never come a miss,
May Dennis and Jane Kelly look right after this.
