"The editor of the Norwich Gazette, with tears of gratitude, thanks the village council for $10, and the Board of Education for $4 for reportorial services. Norwich is a sort of elysium for editors. Woodstock council gives no money and no thanks, while the county council does not even provide a desk for them.

S. REVIEW WOODSTOCK:

It would seem that whilst in Norwich the reporter weeps tears of gratitude the Woodstock quill driver weeps tears of despair. Shed on, brother, we would shed in concert with thee at 5 cents a shed, strictly in advance and no store pay.

Judging from the reports of the Woodstock council sessions, the whole caboodle from the reporter to the Mayor, or better perhaps, from the Mayor to the reporter-would do well to attend a session of the Norwich Council and learn how to do up business without blood and thunder accompaniments.

Desks for the reporters indeed! The man wants the earth.

have succeeded in various professions and callings, and seldom have any of them failed to make good. Much of their success has been due to the initial grounding received in out schools.

Life in Norwich for my family and myself has been of the most pleasant character, and while many of the old friends have passed away, and some have removed to other centres, there are scores remaining whose friendship we prize very highly.

Since coming here in 1908 there have been many changes in the business personnel of the village, and the only names that we can recollect as having their shingle out upon our arrival, and still displaying same, are Drs. Frain and Moles, N.C. Macwhirter Harry Roddy, and Poldons and Madels.

Changes in both North and South Norwich townships have been equally noticeable.

In conclusion I wish to solicit for my successor the same unselfish support that has been accorded me, and further ask that citizens assist the new proprietor by sending in new items, or informing the office of some. You will readily understand that the gathering of news items by one not acquainted is no easy task, so kindly lend your support until Mr. Manore becomes familiar with the district and its grand people.

With best wishes for the continued success of The Gazette and prosperity and good health to the new proprietor and his family, I again say, on behalf of my family and myself, "Thank You."

Yours respectfully,
J.S. Winterburn.

Mr. Winterburn continued to live in Norwich after his retirement. He had a cottage at Turkey Point where he and his wife would spend the summers. Finally he and his wife moved into Woodingford Lodge in
