

A scoop for me too please!

Josh Dewitt stopped in for a "cookies and cream" ice-cream dish at Chesley's new parlour, Scooperama, jointly owned by Chesley businessmen Rick Denomy and Peter Knipfel.

Besides feeling that Chesley needed a place to buy ice cream Denomy said they opened the parlour to give kids jobs.

Scooperama is opened from 7 to 9 weeknights and from 12 to 9:30 on weekends.

Arkwright Women's Institute honors 96-year-old Myrtle Wark

By Mimi Hancock

Ninety-six year old Myrtle Wark received a certificate of merit for her 47 years of membership of the Arkwright Women's Institute.

The certificate was presented to her by Gladys Galbraith for the WI during the WI's June 8 meeting at the home of Ruth Van Sligtenhorst.

Myrtle Melman was born and raised in the Arkwright area where she met and married her husband, Garnet.

Unusual wedding

Residents at Elgin Abbey enjoyed a "bridal shower" and "wedding," Tuesday last week organized by activity directors Betty Lennips and Donna Kuhl. Some of the dresses for the shower were on loan for the day from residents and their friends and family. One wedding gown went back as far as 1932 while some capes, shawls and bonnets were over 100 years old. On the left, resident Francis Thomson, a wedding guest, models one of the shawls and bonnets while being escorted to her seat by usher Bill Lennips. Shown above are some of the bizarre wedding party members listening to the "minister" perform the ceremony.
