

Efforts of Candlelight Christmas Parade winners recognized

Prize winners from the recent Christmas Candlelight Parade in Chesley were presented with their trophies and cash prizes on Thursday morning by Parade co-chairman and Kinsmen Club member, Duane Stade. Here Stade presents the first place trophy and cash prize to Sharon Westenberg of the Chesley Homecoming Public Relations Committee for their winning entry in the Coming Home For Christmas parade category. Unavailable at the time the photo was taken were second and third prize winners in that category, the Chesley Horticultural Society and the Chesley Public School.

The best overall float in the 1994 Candlelight Christmas parade was entered by B&L Farm Services. Accepting the trophy and cash prize for their efforts from Duane Stade is Paula Golem, representing the staff at B&L.

Legion contest winners announced

SBV3-
24

Students from Chesley Public School dominated the winners' circle in the annual Remembrance Day Youth Education Poems, Essays and Posters Contest, sponsored by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 144 in Chesley.

In the intermediate poems category, first place went to Lindsay McCulloch, second to April Gallinger and third to Jim Cosgrove.

First place in the intermediate essay competition went to Corey Smith.

In the Intermediate poster competition, first for black and white went to Majesta McClure and in the color posters category, first went to Jeri Denomy, second to Kim Patterson and third to Lindsay McCulloch.

Laura Sopkow placed first in the Junior Poems' division with Erin Luckhart winning second. In the Junior Essay competition, Jody Patterson placed first and in the Junior Poster competition, for black and white entries, Craig McLean placed first, Sabrina Leifso was second and Andrew Fullerton was third.

In the Junior color poster contest, Keri Emke placed first, Erin Luckhart was second and Carissa Phillips was third.

A total of 65 entries were received in the total competition. All of the winners named above are students at the Chesley Public School with the exception of Sabrina Leifso. Youth Education chairman for the Legion, Rick Lamon, thanks all students for their participation.

Ken Baldwin, director of the Paisley/Chesley Bruce Shrine Club, presents a cheque of $200 to Liz Maxwell, chairperson of the Public Relations Committee at Chesley Hospital. The Shrine Club donated the money stipulating that the money be used for children who are admitted to hospital. The Bruce Shrine Club is part of the Mocha Shrine which goes from Tobermory south to Guelph, from Highway 6 west to the lake. Shrine International supports nineteen hospitals throughout North America, with money coming strictly from fund raising. (Elder photo)