

80th year for 1977
Ontario W.I.

Kitchener, Ont.: The Ontario Women's Institute is celebrating its 80th anniversary and more than 1,300 delegates gathered here July 14 to take in the festivities.

The Women's Institute was founded in 1897 in Stoney Creek, Ont., by Adelaide Hunter Hoodless and Erland Lee. The international arm, the Associated Country Women of the World (A.C.W.W.), was formed in 1933 and now has eight million members. The Women's Institute runs programs in homemaking, nutrition, and leadership, and contributes to emerging countries.

Lindsay Hacket-Pain, of England, honorary treasurer and finance chairman of A.C.W.W., said the organization is a "formidable but informed pressure group if we care to use our influence for good."

Talks planned for subdivision
in Zorra Tp. *elec. 1977

INGERSOLL (Bureau) — Zorra Township council will meet in early January with a Woodstock consultant to discuss a development agreement for a proposed 37-unit subdivision in Lakeside, township clerk Gordon Gregory said Wednesday.

Gregory said a plan for the single-family development has been presented to council by representatives of Woodstock Engineering Ltd. The subdivision, to be developed by Lyle Jarriott, would be built in the southern part of the village.

Gregory said council will discuss lighting, street paving and landscaping before signing the development agreement.

The subdivision must then be approved by Oxford County.
