DEAR OLD ROCKER . . .
I'm never alone at my house
Even when no one is there,
For I found a very comforting friend
In a dear, old, rocking chair.
It consoled the crying infants,
Eased my aches and pains,
Heard all the conversations,
Listened to losses and gains.
As I gently pat the head-rest, Stroke the cushions growing bare,
I recall all my little children
Who were rocked to dreamland there.
Each child had his favorite story
—I always tried my best to please—
As they crowded in this dear, old rocker
Across my shoulder, lap and knees.
So, at night when I'm very tired,
But in bed I can find no sleep,
We share a quiet, secret
tryst—
My rocker and I count sheep.
O LONESOME ME
