

A frame house on the Blue Lake sideroad, 10 miles north of Brantford, which was the birth-place of Adelaide Hunter Hoodless, founder of the Women's Institutes, was marked as an historic site Saturday with the unveiling of a plaque erected by the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario. The house is situated just west of the junction of Highways 5 and 24. Officials of the dedication ceremony included, left to right: Mrs. James Little, president of Blue Lake and Auburn WI; Mrs. R. J. Futcher, St. Thomas, guest speaker and member of the Historic Sites Board; Mrs. Andrew Armstrong, charter member of the Blue Lake and Auburn Institutes, who unveiled the plaque, and the Rev. Orton Anderson, pastor of St. George Baptist Church, who officiated at the dedication. (Photo by Harding).
