

Mr. Lawson spent hundreds of hours of loving care and attention restoring 1910 Pullman (left), which glistens as brightly as the day it rolled out of the carriage shop. Straps keep the top from kiting away in the wind; rods brace the windshield. At right club member Thomas Knapp is ready to take off in Baker Electric made in 1906.

Probably the oldest active motorist in Canada is William O'Brien of Downeyville, 16 miles northwest of Peterborough, who celebrated his 98th birthday in May and last week bought a new car in Lindsay. He's seen at wheel of his present 1928 Essex touring rig with great-granddaughter Lois Murray, 15. Mr. O'Brien has been driving for 30 years and hopes to wear out his new car, too.

OBSERVES 96th BIRTHDAY

A well-known former resident of Paisley, Mrs. Thomas Collins of 123 Bruce Dale Avenue, Hamilton, is today (Wednesday) quietly observing the 96th anniversary of her birthday. This grand old lady came with her parents to Paisley in the early 1860's when she was only a small child, and with the exception of a short time spent in Western Canada, was a continuous resident of Paisley until a few years ago when she went to reside with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan at Hamilton. Despite the fact that she has lost her eyesight, Mrs. Collins maintains a bright and keen interest in everything. She enjoys her favorite radio programs, and regards The Paisley Advocate as her weekly letter from the old home town.

Her many old friends here will join The Advocate in extending felicitations to Mrs. Collins, with the added hope that she may be spared to celebrate many more anniversaries of her natal day.
