KIWANIANS HEAR ADDRESS ON TRIP TO OLYMPIC GAMES

Members of the Port Arthur Bearcats, who represented Canada at the Olympic hockey games, Coach Albert Pudas and Malcolm Cochran, manager, were guests of the Port Arthur-Fort William Kiwanis club at the regular weekly meeting held last evening in the Prince Arthur hotel, Port Arthur.

The coach was introduced to the gathering by George Wardrope, who in making the introduction called upon Mr. Pudas to introduce the players present. The players in attendance included: Arnold Deacon, Gus Saxberg, Norman Friday, Jake Nash and Ray Milton.

Mr. Cochran, the guest speaker, described many interesting highlights of the trip to the winter games. He described the reception the boys received at Halifax. He said he has been in a tough spot but the toughest was when they were in Moncton and Halifax.

At St. Moritz, he said, there were 56 hotels and each owned a private rink for the accommodation of their guests.
In regard to the game with Great Britain, he stated that they had no alibis to offer. It was one of those games when the team did everything but score.

It was announced by F. Moersch that the tickets for the Major Bowes' amateur shows on Monday in Port Arthur were going very fast and that they looked for a capacity house at all performances.

F. Godsavage delighted those present with two vocal solos. He was accompanied at the piano by R. L. Seaman. A community song was led by R. S. Kirkup. Birthday greetings were extended to P. McCallum and H. Mills by E. Eade, who presented each with a billfold.

Funeral Rites for Dead Girl Are Arranged

holiday cut short by an urgent summons to return to Fort William, are Bliss' parents, distracted by news that their son is in trouble. They will arrive home tomorrow morning.

"I feel sorry for the young man's parents," said Mr. Johnston, in a soft voice. "I never knew the young man. It must be a terrible shock to his father and mother. I do not know them either but I am told they are fine folk and greatly respected in Fort William."

There was no bitterness in Mr. Johnston's voice, only grief over the tragedy that has overtaken his household.

Father's Tribute

"Millie was a fine girl," he continued. "All our girls are for that matter. You may excuse a parent saying that but everyone who knows them says the same."
"My daughter went to school here, three different public schools, Francis, Isabella and Central, and passed her entrance into the commercial forms of the collegiate institute."

Business conditions five years ago prevented Millie from entering upon work for which she qualified, but she later obtained employment at the telephone exchange as an operator.

During her service as a "Hello" girl, her co-workers declare, she developed into one of the most efficient as well as one of the most popular members of the exchange staff.

"I looked after my sister's children while Millie went to the dance with Mr. and Mrs. Harris," declared the only son in the family, Arthur.

"When my sister and her husband returned to their home I asked where Millie was. We concluded she had remained uptown for a bite to eat and would go on home."

"I arrived home about three o'clock in the morning and inquired if Millie was in yet. When I found she had not returned I went downstairs and unlocked the door for her."

The night passed and Millie did not return but Thursday morning her parents and members of the family were not perturbed, concluding that she had gone to the Harris home to spend the night. Occasionally she had stayed at the Harris home overnight, they said.

Clergyman Breaks News

Then, about 8:30 o'clock yesterday morning, the family was summoned by a knock on the door. Rev. E. G. Turnbull, pastor of Wesley United church, entered and broke the news of the girl's death as gently as he could.

"But we knew little of what had happened until we read the paper," said Miss Blanche Johnston.

Members of the family said Mildred infrequently attended evening functions. Her closest friends were co-workers in the telephone exchange and her most absorbing interests were in outdoor pursuits.

"She was a great girl for hiking," said her brother Arthur. "She would walk miles to enjoy a good toboggan slide. She asked nothing more than the company of a few girl friends on a hike or a climb up the mountain."

Friend's Regret

Miss Carrie Tafe, 205 south Marks street, intimate friend of the dead girl and a member of the exchange staff, said last night she wished from the bottom of her heart that she had not befriended Mildred Wednesday night.

"I am senior to Millie and it really was my night off duty," explained Miss Tafe. "But Millie asked me if I would allow her Wednesday night as she was eager to attend the dance with her sister. Naturally I agreed. How I wish now that I had refused her. She would be alive today."

Miss Tafe and other friends of the dead girl were on duty at the exchange when the fateful telephone call was put through to the police station asking officers to go to 222 north Franklin street but they were unaware of the grim tragedy to be unfolded as a result of the call "plugged" through central.
"It was not until some time after we went off duty at eight o'clock in the morning that we heard Millie was dead. I cannot say how sorry we are over it. I have known her ever since she started at the exchange and we were the closest of friends. Millie was always jolly at her work."

Miss Marion Kearney, 251 west Frederica street, likewise is mourning her dead friend.

Grim Inquiry

She was on duty also Thursday morning at the exchange when shortly before eight o'clock some one called and asked "If an accident had happened."

"We had no such reports at the exchange," said Miss Kearney, "and we were unable to give the unknown inquirer any information."

It was after she had gone off duty that Miss Kearney heard that Mildred had been killed.

"I could not believe it," she said. "She was too happy and pleasant a girl to die that way."

Miss Iris Prettie, chief operator at the exchange, spoke in glowing praise of the dead girl.

"She had a fine record since she joined the staff more than five years ago," declared Miss Prettie. "She was punctual, efficient and rarely, if ever, absent."

"She seemed such a frail little thing that we often wondered where she obtained all her energy. She was never ill to my knowledge and she always gave the very best of satisfaction."

"We naturally knew her well here. She was not a girl to run around at all."

"Her late sister, Hazel, was equally popular and our staff was saddened greatly when she died suddenly last year."

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Harry Compton, only sister of Gordon Bliss, visited the Johnston home to express her sorrow and sympathy for Mildred's parents, sisters and brother.

HAUPTMANN FEELS SURE OF PARDON AS DOOM-DAY NEAR

TRENTON, N.J., March 27.—With the flurry of rumors growing in number and strength as the hour of Hauptmann's execution drew nearer, person who appeared most certain he would not walk to his death Tuesday night was Bruno Hauptmann himself. "I don't feel I will go out that door," the condemned man told Col. Kimberling today. "I feel something is going to happen."

If Hauptmann's execution is halted—the insinuations are already out, and the executioner has been called in—it will have to be either a reprieve, by court of pardons mercy, or by an order for a new trial.

Statement Coming

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz said today he would issue a statement at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning on his attitude toward another reprieve for Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

"I believe other persons were connected with the crime," he reiterated, "and that the state police are making no honest effort to find them."

Sweeping through Trenton today was a sensational and unconfirmed report that Hauptmann had changed his story of how he came into possession of the Lindbergh ransom money.

He was reported to have signed a statement that he "bought" the ransom money, more than $14,000 of which was found in his possession when he was arrested September, 1934. The warden, however, explicitly denied the report.

Simultaneous with this report, which came from a source close to Governor Hoffman's investigation of the case, was a published account of a new "confession" by a Trenton man previously unidentified with the case.

This "confession" said the man kidnapped the small son of Charles A. Lindbergh March 1, 1932, because he "hated society."

City Items

Wm. A. Fuller, secretary and editor of the Railway Mission and Broadcaster, will arrive in the city from the west on Sunday, March 29, and will hold a service in the Salvation Army citadel, North May street, at 3:30 p.m. The service will be of special interest to railway and street car men.

OXDRIFT FARMER TAKES OWN LIFE

(Special to the Times-Journal)
DRYDEN, Mar. 27.—Robert Henry Elliott, farmer, living one mile west of Oxdrift, eight miles from Dryden, aged 72, hanged himself between 6 and 6:30 this morning. He tied a rope to a awing scaffold just outside of his back door, climbed up a ladder and jumped off. He leaves a wife and three daughters at home and one son living in British Columbia.

HILL CITY HOME RAZED BY FLAMES

A two-story frame house, occupied by Mike Roszko, at 179 Otto street, Port Arthur, was destroyed by fire at 5:40 o'clock this morning. The loss is covered by insurance.

Mrs. Roszko, who with their three children was sleeping downstairs, was awakened by smoke and crackling of flames. The family escaped.

LOCAL DETACHMENT OF R.C.M.P. MOVES INTO POST OFFICE

The first to move into Fort William's new public building, members of the Fort William detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, under Corporal J. H. Sherwood, today were making themselves at home in their quarters on the third floor.

The quarters occupied by the detachment are in the northwest corner of the building, and include office space and living accommodation for three officers.

The detachment commenced moving in yesterday, and today police business was being transacted in the new office.

The three officers who will take up residence in the living quarters are Constables T. A. Waugh, D. H. Woodbridge and F. W. Johnson.

Members of the detachment are pleased with the new quarters, Corporal Sherwood said this afternoon. The new office will have one advantage over the former office, in that it will be in close contact with the postal department and other government offices which will be located in the same building, he said. The office of the detachment formerly was at 223 S. John street.

No word as to the opening of the new post office, which occupies the first and second floors of the building, has been received yet by the department of public works.

Memorial to Late Thos. Daley Plan of Pupils, Staff

As a testimonial of their respect and affection, pupils and teachers of Francis school jointly will place a memorial hymn book table in St. Thomas Anglican church in honor of the late Thomas Daley, janitor of the school for 23 years.

As church sidesman, the late Mr. Daley distributed hymn books at St. Thomas Sabbath services for many years.

At morning assembly at Francis school yesterday Principal W. E. Eade spoke words of praise for the late janitor, friend of teacher and pupil alike. His faithfulness, his kindness endeared to him to hundreds of boys and girls who passed through Francis school in the past two score years, said Principal Eade.

The funeral of the late Mr. Daley will be held Saturday afternoon from the family home, 273 East Amelia street, at two o'clock to St. Thomas Anglican church where services will be conducted at 2:30 by Rev. W. A. Hankinson, rector. Burial will be in the family plot, Mountain View cemetery. Obsequies will be under the joint auspices of Lodge Lord Roberts, Sons of England, and Thunder Bay Camp, Woodmen of the World.

M. L. A. PROTESTS FEES OF LAWYERS

TORONTO, Mar. 27 (CP)—A maximum counsel fee of $40 for the first day and $35 a day thereafter for lawyers who act for the government was urged in the Ontario legislature budget debate last night by P. M. Dewar (Lib. Oxford).

"It is difficult to understand the grasping—shall I say chiselling—attitude of many lawyers who render government services or serve on investigations or commissions," said Dewar. "Surely there ought to be a maximum wage in these cases. Why should a lawyer be allowed to charge what he chooses for his services any more than any other man?"
