COUNTY AND DISTRICT.

One death has occurred in Mt. Forest from the effects of la grippe.

The Pickering News says that McGin y is all right, and it has located him on the 2nd con. of Pickering.

The Stouffville Tribune came to hand last week under the new management of Messrs. Malloy and Keefer.

A new foundry is about to be started in Collingwood. It is to be hoped this scheme will not fall through as did the Doty ship yard.

Mr. John Wilson, of the old Survey, Melancthon, reports the death of what was perhaps the oldest goose in the township. It was 25 years old, and laid eggs until it was 23. Mr. Wilson is certain as to the age of the bird.—[Shelburne Economist.

The sensational report about a man in Whitby drinking rum to cure himself of la grippe, going insane, and then killing his wife with a butcher knife turns out to be all humbug. A Whitby man drank a glass of rum one day last week—and this singular and very suspicious circumstance doubtless gave rise to the tale of slaughter.—[Pickering News.

We heartily congratulate Charles Moffat, Esq., Reeve of Glenelg, on being chosen warden of the county for 1899. Mr. Moffat is quite at home in the chair. It is not the first time he has been placed in a similar position, as we understand he has been Master of the Dominion Grange. Mr. Moffat will doubtless discharge the duties of the position, so as to reflect credit upon himself, and to the advantage of the country.—[O. S. Times.

The County Council is steadily increasing in numbers. There are in 1899, forty-eight—Owen Sound, Sullivan and Artemesia each send an additional member this year; while St. Vincent sends but one Deputy instead of two, as for a year or two past. Many of the old familiar faces are still to be seen at the Board. Dr. Christie, Messrs. Gamey, Lang, Read, Gilray, Miller, Clark and Bowes are getting to be veterans in the service of the county, and it is well that some of the old and wise heads are retained, if only as drill-instructors to train up the new comers in the way they ought to go.—[O. S. Times.

Mr. Bartlett's boy, who accidentally swallowed a button hook last October, is now out of danger. For about three weeks past he was a great sufferer, and lay almost at death's door, but on Friday last the hook passed through the bowels and discharged itself from his body in a natural way. The hook is four inches long and over an inch wide at one end. Dr. Moore, who attended him during his long period of suffering, consulted with Dr. McFarlane, of Toronto, regarding a surgical operation to remove the hook, but both doctors concluded that it was better not to risk the operation, which would have been a dangerous one. Nature did the work in its own way, and now the boy is in a fair way to complete recovery after weeks of great pain and suffering. He'll not repeat the attempt to show his companions how easily a man can swallow a sword.—[Brampton Conservator.
