Balsam Valley Items.

From our own Correspondent.

The farmers in this locality are and have been for the past three weeks very busy plowing and harrowing, sowing, cultivating and in fact everything appertaining to spring work, right down to having four meals a day. As we sit down on the fence for a few minutes to rest our weary limbs about the middle of the forenoon, we notice one man harrowing in one field, and another plowing in the next, and another further on sowing with both hands, with head erect and breast stuck out as he walks across the field with a stately stride, and takes an occasional glance out of the corner of his left eye in the direction of the hired man, we are impressed with the opinion that his mind is running in the same channel as that of Alexander Selkirk, and we imagine he is soliloquizing: "I am monarch of all I survey, My right there is none to dispute," etc.

Mr. D. McIntyre has engaged Mr. J. Hill to run his farm this spring. It is quite right for a person starting farming to engage a person who can give him a few lessons on farm management. We congratulate Mr. Hill upon attaining the coveted position of foreman and teacher and we trust that Dave may be considerably benefitted by securing the services of so proficient a person. Mr. Pat Burke has engaged Mr. Charles Ferguson by the day until he gets through seeding. There was quite a rush here in the valley for hired men this spring. Dougal Ferguson, jr., is hired with Mr. J. Campbell by the day. He and Joe are rushing in the crop in a hurry, and W. Stuart is working occasionally with J. T. Wilson. Alex. McKenzie, of Proton Station, is also engaged with Mr. Wilson driving the mules. He has found out lately that the Scripture is true which reads: "No man can serve two masters;" he is also fully convinced that Solomon knew a good deal about women when he said, "It is better for a man to dwell in the corner of a house top alone than in a large house with a brawling woman." My humble opinion is that the person, man or woman, who will take advantage of a boy because he is young, and because they can and endeavor to take a man's work out of him when they are only giving him boy's wages, is not deserving of the good wishes of the community in which they live. Perhaps some may think I am a little too hard or too personal, but you all know that the lot of the farm laborer is generally very hard. To work from 12 to 16 hours per day is surely enough without having to put up with all the abusive language any member of the family likes to impose upon you when they think it becomes necessary for them to waggle their tongue a while. Such conduct, I say, on the part of any employer should not be let go by without it being exposed. It does not give me any pleasure to write articles of this kind, but evil must be spoken against, and when anything of this kind comes under my notice I feel myself in duty bound to raise my voice against them.

Mr. Farquhar McKinnon has bought a fine horse from Mr. P. Ferguson, and a harness to match, which goes to show he is not going to go on shank's horse but as lude as he can help this summer. I would not mind being his best girl myself this summer.

The measles have left this neighborhood after giving some of us a pretty rough handling. Mrs. Dougal Ferguson had a very severe attack, but under the good treatment of Dr. Hutton she is able to attend to her household duties again.

I notice notwithstanding the attempts of some to keep down a the price of eggs, they have risen one cent per doz. One of our citizens brought a few doz. out to Priceville some time ago when they were only 8 cents, and they seemed to be very particular about them that day. The store-keeper found one in the basket that was a shade smaller than the rest. She ignorantly insulted the hen that laid it by replacing it in the basket, with the modest remark: "It is rather small, that one!" I just wonder if it had been a goose egg, would she have done the same trick?

Miss Mary and Maggie McCormic have gone to Toronto to work. We wish them success.

If you have got that enormous flea yet, Mr. Editor, let him out to practice for the 24th. OBEN.

Rome.
From our own Correspondent.

Few more dangerous accidents have happened in our neighborhood, than that which befel Mr. Jno. Wilson, who working for Mr. Jno. Smith he was hitching the oxen to the plow, when they took fright and ran away. To avoid being run through by the plow, he seized the chain, but not being able to keep pace with the infuriated beasts he fell and was being forced along at a terrible speed, when he lost his hold. The plow struck him in the back. He was found and taken home by Mr. Smith, more dead than alive. After attending to his injuries, Mr. Smith went in search of the oxen. After finding them he thought to free them from the plow, but he just succeeded in getting the chain in his hands when the oxen struck out once more at a break-neck speed. He, too, was taken for some distance, when he lost his grip, the plow also struck him in the back. But beyond the fright he was fortunately not much the worse.

Our young people met at Mr. E. Scanlan's on Friday evening to "trip the light fantastic toe" and pull taffy. Splendid time, so they say.

Mr. O. B. Wreckless has laid aside his pen and taken up his old trade, stone mason. Mr. Oh! Bill, we hope your "right hand has not lost its cunning," and that we will yet hear from you.
