The Pickering News says it is preparing a list of those who allow their cows to run at large in that village. So far the list includes only five names and four animals. The space at our disposal does not admit of enterprise in this direction, and we are too poor to issue a supplement. However the pasture in our suburbs is good and so long as the cows don't suffer we suppose there is no use kicking.

Not all new things come from the effete East. There was a general exodus of Fleshertians on the 24th to outside points. The great majority of pleasure seekers went fishing, others went to Owen Sound, while still others spent the day in sweet communion with their potato patches and gardens.

Beautifying the Cemetery.

A large number of plottolders responded to the invitation to be present on Saturday last and assist in beautifying and fixing up the cemetery grounds generally. A large amount of work was done which adds greatly to the beauty of the grounds. This has become an annual affair now, and by continuing the good work, within a very few years Flesherton cemetery will be one of the prettiest country plots to be found. It has been suggested that next year a dinner be furnished to those who donate their labors in this manner, which, of course, is a praiseworthy idea when it is considered that many plottolders live at a considerable distance from the village, and are thus debarred from spending as much time as they would desire to.

Can't do it.

We have received from our Balsam Valley correspondent a letter signed by young McKenzie denying that he put his name to the article which appeared in these columns two or three weeks ago with reference to the treatment received by him from Mr. Wilson. Now we are sorry that our correspondent has insisted upon continuing this question, because it obliges us to take issue with him in his opinions of justice. He says "in justice to the boy" we should allow him a reply. If our correspondent will think for a moment he will surely understand that there are greater interests at stake than the mere dealing out of justice to a boy. In the first place we must guard our columns against anything odious to our readers, and personal matters of this nature are always so. Had we thoroughly understood the case, original reference to it would never have appeared. In the second place the charge made by our correspondent is of so grave a nature that it exceeds the bounds of abuses which a newspaper controversy can rectify. In the third place it is utterly useless to use a newspaper to rectify personal matters between neighbors, as it only creates, instead of diminishing strife, and we desire our correspondents hereafter to cautiously shun personalities which might give offence as they would shun the business end of a bee. Like the latter insect there is sure to be a sting somewhere, and one which rattles like hot iron when it enters. In this instance both gentlemen interested are good friends of The Advance, and we would much rather act the part of peacemaker, if there are differences existing, than to be the medium whereby more irritation would be engendered. Therefore please excuse us from referring to this matter again.

Burglars Jailed.

The burglars who broke into R. Trimble's store on the night of the 9th inst. are now languishing in Barrie jail awaiting their trial at the fall assizes. The story of their crimes and capture is quite a romantic one, and proves that they are old birds at the business. Word reached Flesherton the fore part of last week that two men were peddling goods in the vicinity of Singhampton at wonderfully cheap prices, and Mr. Trimble decided to go down and endeavor to discover whether the goods were his or not. He left home on Tuesday of last week and did not return until Sunday evening. He was not successful in recovering any of his goods worth mentioning, as they had all been sold, but he had the pleasure of tracing the route taken by the burglars, step by step, from Stayner to his own door here in Flesherton. After leaving the store with their bundle of goods they went south along the gravel road, hid their goods about daylight and had tea that day at Mr. Ward Harrison's. This was Saturday. Saturday night they travelled on south till they arrived at the road which leads to Horning's Mills, and hid their goods on Sunday morning in the hay loft of a stable belonging to a gentleman named Breen. Here they were discovered dividing the goods on Sunday, but were allowed to go. From this they passed through Horning's Mills and then began peddling goods along the way, passing through Nottawa, Singhampton and on to Stayner. This, in few words, is the route over which Mr. Trimble spent four days last week in tracking his goods, and he did it as well as it could be done by a practised detective.

STORY OF THE CAPTURE.

The daily papers of Monday week announced that two burglaries had been done in Stayner on Saturday night, 17th inst., or just one week after the Flesherton burglary. On the Monday night following, Fletcher's grist mill, in Alliston, was broken open and the safe cracked. On Tuesday, 19th inst., two strangers entered a hardware store in Beeton and purchased a revolver and asked for half a dozen Mason's drills, but the proprietor could not accommodate them with the latter articles. They then visited a blacksmith shop and had a drill made to order. The suspicions of the hardware merchant were here aroused and he telegraphed to Stayner a description of the men and received a reply that they were the ones wanted. He went to the station and found that the men had purchased tickets for Orangeville. A telegram was sent to Orangeville and the two gents were arrested when they arrived there, one of them having upon his feet a pair of boots which had been stolen and some jewellery taken from a shop in Stayner. They were taken over to Stayner and tried before the magistrate, when Mr. Trimble brought forward witnesses who proved that they were the men who had peddled his goods. This completed the chain and they were sent to Barrie to await trial at the fall assizes. Should they then be found guilty justice can only be appeased by the severest sentence which can be meted out to them. A life sentence would be none too severe. Their career as followed by Mr. Trimble shows them to be of the most desperate and hardened character. Although that gentleman has only been able to recover a few of the articles still bearing his mark yet he has the satisfaction of being morally certain that the right rogues are in the toils, and it is to be hoped for the safety of the country that they will remain there for many years to come. The men, when arrested, gave their names as Harrison and Smith.

These men have been operating throughout the western part of Ontario for some time. Mr. Trimble has received letters from merchants at several points who have been victimised by them. On April 21st they entered a store in Brussels and stole between three and four hundred dollars worth of goods of the very same class which were taken from Mr. Trimble. This firm writes, giving an accurate description of the two men who are now in jail as being the characters who were suspected of taking their goods. In Mt. Forest the same act was repeated. It is most gratifying to know that their career has now been nipped in the bud, and Mr. Trimble deserves great praise for his efforts to bring the rascals to justice. His tracing of his goods and bringing witnesses to prove that these goods were sold to them by the men now in custody will prove evidence that no legal quibbles can overcome, and the county may congratulate itself upon having in the toils two characters who will be safer breaking stone for our roads than travelling over them.
