

Against All Precedent.

She had spent three years in college, and the lot of lore and knowledge she had packed within her cranium was wonderfully great.

WON BY AN ENGLISHMAN: A LOVE STORY.

He got up frantic, and looking at the man from top to toe as he stood up in response to my movement, I said: "You have appealed to me as an English gentleman and a man of honor."

explained, have been, after all, intended for me, and I have positively declined old Maupert's desire to deprive me of your company. What have you done to that worthy nephew in posse, that he should wish you out of the way?

hands, and with a look which at once indicated both weariness and some anxiety, said: "Tell me all about this business, for it appears to be more serious than I thought it."

the whole atmosphere of gloom which had pursued us till now, which even Raymond's gay manner had not effectually dispelled. One little being alone hung her head and said nothing, while the others poured question upon question as to when I would leave or return.

HIS MYSTERIOUS MISSION. A Pittsburg Railroader on the Trail of an Unknown Foe. The following story is told by the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette: No word has yet been received from James F. Garrison, the train caller at the Lake Erie depot, who disappeared August 11th.
