RIGHT NOW.

Very soon your nose
Will be red ;
Very soon your toes
Will feel dead ;
Summer soon will close
Then come wintry woes.
Come and get your clothes
Right now.

Overcoats in rows
And in piles ;
Every garment shows
Autumn styles ;
No man ever froze
In such coats as those.
Come and get your clothes
Right now.

Prices we oppose
That are high ;
People we suppose
Like to buy
Goods whose value shows
Where each penny goes,
Come and get such clothes
Right now.

We have sundry foes
In the trade,
But our business grows
By your aid ;
Competition blows,
But the buyer knows
Where to get his clothes
Right now.

GENTLEMEN!

McIntyre.

From our own Correspondent.

Farmers in this vicinity have now their roots housed, and are busy engaging for the winter.

The potato crops here, as in other places, suffered somewhat from the rot, but on the whole they were a fine crop. The turnips and other roots are also a good crop.

Hallowe'en passed off without any very notable depredations being done. Not that we can boast of our boys being any better than boys in other places, for the small ones still continue to carry off gates and do other boyish little tricks.

John McDonald, from Toronto, is visiting his parents at present. We understand he intends going to Newberry for the winter.

Miss Inkster has been re-engaged to instruct the youths in this section for another year, thus making the fifth year. The school board is to be complimented in retaining the services of such an efficient teacher.

Mr. Thos. Scott was laid up for a few days last week with a sprained knee which he received while wrestling. Verrily youth will have its folly.

Mrs. John Douglas, jr., presented her liege lord with a son on Thursday, Nov. 6th. Mother and child are doing well.

Some of our fair daughters intend leaving for Toronto this week, viz.: Katie McIntyre and Katie McDonald. Since the large emigration of young men from here this fall, the young ladies have decided that every place seems lonesome now since Johnny went away.

Mr. S. Scott lost one of his pigs some time ago, and after looking some days for it found it on Saturday last. It had crawled in between the straw stack and the barn and was unable to extricate itself, and when found had been in that position for 8 or 9 days without food. The pig looks rather gaunt, but otherwise none the worse for the fact.

Maxwell.

From our own Correspondent.

Since you last heard from us Thanksgiving day has passed, and we shall hear nothing more of it until next year. Some from our villagers went to Flesherton on that day and they speak of having an excellent time.

Mr. Williams shipped somewhere in the neighborhood of seventy tubs of butter to Port Arthur on Saturday. He left here with the intention of going himself, but returned on the stage, as he has some other important business to look after. A party was held at the house of Mr. Williams on last Thursday evening. Those invited enjoyed themselves, and those not invited (that went) had an excellent time.

Another party was held near here on Friday evening, and was a success also. At both they "tripped the light fantastic toe" for a time.

Mr. George Gray intends moving to McIntyre shortly.

The Messrs. Heron are building a shed at the school house.

Miss Sarah Petit (Mrs. Brown's sister), is visiting at the parsonage.

Mr. Madden, who lives near here, received an injury lately. He is under Dr. Scott's care, and therefore we are safe in saying he will shortly be all right again.

Dr. Kerr and wife, of Toronto Junction, came into town on Monday. We are all pleased to see them come to their "native village" again.

On last Friday some thought the end of time had come. A toot was heard, then a whistle, and after a while Inkster's machine commenced working. The people saw some straw being piled up behind Fields' barn and so the danger passed away. From there they moved to Mr. Preston's. We believe there was a fine turnout of grain at both places.

The boys around here go out shooting at every spare moment; and at any time you may hear the expression, "Johnny get your gun."

Our teacher, Mr. J. L. Wood, is engaged here for next year.

Inistoge.

From our own Correspondent.

We believe that the enticement of a larger salary than S. S. No. 4, Artemesia, can give, is going to draw our present teacher, Mr. Wright, from our midst, at the end of the present year. We are sorry to lose Mr. Wright as he is an efficient and painstaking teacher.

The new brick school house which is being built here is at last nearing a tardy completion, and will be opened for public service after the vacation.

The little winged god, "Cupid" is still hovering between the cheese factory and the post office, and nuptial matters looking brisk.

Eugenia.

From our own Correspondent.

Mr. J. C. Sloan has leased the steam saw mill on the 12th and he intends leaving our village this week.

Thanksgiving day passed off very quietly in this village with the exception of the noise caused by some old carousers who became somewhat joyous in the evening.

Mr. Wm. Walker has returned home and looks as hale and hearty as ever.

Mr. Burns, of Parry Sound, has been visiting his friends in this village during the past week.

Mr. Roy has made considerable improvements to his house, and now it has a much better appearance.

Meaford Road.

From our own Correspondent.

As noticed in your columns last week, the most startling event that has occurred here for some time was the sudden and unexpected demise of Mr. Stamborskie.

Our school trustees have advertised for a new teacher in consequence of the resignation of Miss Ford.

Mr. W. Heath's flock of sheep was visited by dogs last week and a valuable one of the number killed.

The short winter that we have been favored with has made those who have their root crop to take off bestir themselves with alacrity before there comes another fall of the beautiful snow.

Feversham News.

From our own Correspondent.

As your correspondents from this burg have failed for some time to give us news, I will try to supply the vacancy.

Feversham is still basking in the same delightful situation. Here do you find the mystic rocks and caves deep into the earth. The Beaver river which divides the village in the centre gives the place a favorable appearance in business respects.

Our grist mill is still in operation, and a great deal of chopping is being done.

Mr. F. C. Bruce, our shop keeper, is doing a large business. There are two vacant stores in Feversham. A first class opening would be found here for the right man.

Our blacksmiths and wood workers are also very busy at the present.

Hallowe'en passed off very quietly around here. King Dyer's horse was taken from the hotel at Feversham, but we believe he was brought back again to the aged man.

Mr. John Parks, of this place, went down to Toronto to study medicine some time ago. His course was a short one, as he returned in three or four days.

The health of Mr. Parks, sr., is improving daily and we believe he will soon be around again.

James Daveo and George Redpath, extradited from Toronto for robbing Smalley, of Orion, Mich., pleaded guilty and were sentenced to four years each at Jackson. John Ward, an accomplice, gets one year at Ionia.
