To Destroy Canadian Thistles.

The method which we find most effective in getting rid of thistles is to put plenty of work on the land at the proper time. We often hear of some patent way of killing them, but this I know for a certainty, that the cleanest farms in Ontario are those on which the cultivation is most thorough. In this particular section, where fall wheat is grown only to a very limited extent, many of our best farmers have, in a large measure, given up summer-fallowing, and rely mainly for keeping their farms clean and free from weeds on thorough fall working and growing hoed crops. The system followed is to plough over the stubble with a thin furrow—using double furrow ploughs for the purpose—as soon as possible after harvest, or even during harvest, as soon as the field is ready and time can be spared, the object aimed at being to bring any seeds which may be lying on the surface, into favorable condition for germinating. Then again, if time can be spared, give another thin ploughing a little deeper the second time. Where manure is applied in the fall it is drawn on after the first ploughing and covered in lightly, the object aimed at always being, as first mentioned, to get as many seeds as possible to germinate, and in this way, if there are seeds in the manure possessing vitality, many of them are destroyed. By this system a great deal is done in the way of cleaning the land, for not only are many seeds got rid of, but by no other mode of culture can the growing weeds be more effectively destroyed, especially the Canada thistle. Later in the season, the land is ploughed deeply and left in good shape for spring seeding. Then again, as already said, the cultivation of hoed crops is relied on a good deal for keeping down and getting rid of thistles. On very many of our best managed farms, especially on those where stock-raising or dairying is made a specialty, the various hoed crops are extensively grown. One of the great advantages of cleaning the land in this way is that, while the weeds are being destroyed, the crop, whatever it may be, corn, roots or rape, is being greatly benefited at the same time by the extra cultivation. However, perhaps there is no way in which nearly every noxious weed can be more thoroughly got rid of than by a judicious system of partial soiling, and next to draining, would at the same time do as much towards raising the average yield of the farms of this country. I am led to speak in this way from the satisfactory result which I have found to follow my own practice, and from observation when judging prize farms for some nine or ten years in every part of this province.—John I. Hudson in The Canadian Live Stock and Farm Journal for June.

Eugenia

From our own Correspondent.

Mr. and Mrs. Watts were very much surprised on Tuesday evening of last week, when a large company of people, numbering about sixty, arrived at their house, at Eugenia. The ladies were thoughtful, and provided something substantial to support the inner man. Before supper was served Mr. James Williams, on behalf of all present, presented Mr. and Mrs. Watts with some small tokens of esteem, among them an address got up in a pretty frame, and a purse for Mrs. Watts. Mr. Watts returned thanks to the people in a very affectionate address. Mrs. Watts returned her thanks in her kind and gentle way which pleased every one present. After the presentation the ladies who had the arrangement of the affair, assisted by some of the gentlemen present, passed around a splendid supper, as there were so many it was impossible to seat them at tables. Both young and old declared they had never spent a more pleasant time. The evening being fine the young people enjoyed themselves in out door games, while the older ones passed the time in a real sociable manner indoors. What made it more sociable, every denomination was represented, which showed that Mr. Watts was esteemed and beloved by every one. Quite a number of Kimberley people were present, also some from Salem. Mr. Watts will be long remembered by the people of Eugenia for the work he has done among them. By his hard work both the church and the shed at the church were put in its present creditable appearance. Every one wishes him and his wife and family a long and prosperous life wherever they may go.

ADDRESS :

Reverend and very dear sir It is with pleasure that we meet you here this evening, although we are all sincerely sorry at your removal from amongst us. We have witnessed with delight your labors amongst us as a faithful, devoted, and efficient minister of Christ, and we felt it our duty in this humble way to show our estimation of them. You have, as a good soldier of the cross, fought manfully the battle of the Lord, and bravely maintained your position and executed your duties as a herald of salvation to us. To whatever department of your labors we turn we are convinced that you have pursued it with the utmost diligence. In the preaching of the Word you have administered soothing science to the mind racked by sufferings and ravaged by disease. You have in reality wept with those who weep, and rejoiced with those who did rejoice. By your kindly feeling and instruction you have secured a prominent place in our hearts, and it is to your most earnest labors and the blessing of God that we owe the present appearance of our church. When you came among us your church was in a miserable condition. By your own work and energy we can now compare our church with any other for beauty and comfort, for which this congregation owes you a lasting remembrance. As for Mrs. Watts, her name shall never be forgotten by us. She has enshrined herself in our hearts by her kindness and gentleness manifested to us, and we sincerely trust she may long be spared as a comfort to you and a blessing to all who meet her. We think a good wife is the greatest blessing a pastor can have. By her gentleness she can do a great deal to help him win souls for Christ. Such a one is Mrs. Watts. As for the young folk of our family we are all truly sorry to lose them from our midst. So now, dear friends, we would humbly beg of you to accept of this small token of our esteem for you. And we all do most sincerely pray that no matter what part of the Lord's vineyard you may be placed in that the Great Giver of all good may pour out His choicest blessings on your head, and may you long be spared to be a blessing to others, and may we all be prepared to say those words with a sincere heart:

Parted friends may meet again
When the storms of life are past,
And the spirit freed from pain
Bask in friendship's bliss will stay.
Parted friends again may meet,
From the folds of nature free,
Crowned with mercy, oh how sweet
Will eternal friendship be!

From the members and friends of the reverend J. H. Watts, of Eugenia mission. Eugenia, June 10, 1901.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Belliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skillful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.
