Knocked Out!

Is but a figurative expression to indicate the condition of the merchant who buys on credit in this progressive age of business. The credit buyer compared with the cash buyer is like a lamp rag compared with a sturdy oak. The man who pays cash is able to knock out the poor fellow who has to have credit.

Going thro' the World,

Especially that portion of it which immediately surrounds Flesherton, you will find no more intrepid explorers after low prices on merchandise than The Cash Store. They are bound that their store shall be headquarters for all the low price hunters in the county, and to still keep up that reputation we have received and opened out this week some low-priced peralizers which we will be glad to show you, bought for spot cash, which no merchant dare sell lower.

Mind Your Own Business.

The advice may sound impertinent, but it is sound advice anyway. The most successful business men have always done so. It is the mischievous meddler in other folk's business who makes a mess of it. By minding our own business we have been able to attend to it with pleasure and profit. We have mastered all its secrets followed up all its avenues, and reached the fountain of success, and we are minding our own business when we advise you to give us a call. We will be at home all day, waiting and longing to see you, and to have the opportunity of showing you what you never saw before nor since.

Don't forget McDonald & Evans, and the low priced Goods always on hand.

A Sudden Call.

Mr. John Field Passes Away.

Apoplexy claims Another Victim—An Imposing Funeral Cortège—The Military and Benevolent Societies Attend in a Body.

Flesherton has seldom or never received such a shock as it did on Sunday morning last when the news was received that Captain John Fields had died that morning. The fact that he had been around town the night before made his demise hard to realize. That a man can be cut down in a moment—severed from all earthly ties and almost instantly ushered into eternity—seems hard to believe, even though we are told that "in the midst of life we are in death." Mr. Fields arose on Sunday morning about 5 o'clock, apparently as well as usual, and sat down to have a smoke before breakfast. When called to eat his morning meal he arose, washed, and combed his hair. While sitting in his seat the death blow fell. He arose staggered toward the sofa, but fell before reaching it and gasped for breath. His son lifted him and placed him on a bed, when Mr. Fields managed to say "Joe, I'm done for." Those were the last words he spoke, although death did not relieve him for nearly half an hour. Mr. Fields had not been feeling very well for the past year and a half. A year ago last winter a severe attack of la grippe prostrated him, and another last winter still further undermined his constitution, but he did not consider himself seriously ailing, and was not confined to the house. He was 54 years of age and a resident of this township for the past thirty years, and was widely and favorably known. It was therefore not surprising that his funeral should be the largest ever seen in this county. It was attended on Tuesday last by three benevolent societies of which he was a member, the members of No. 6 Co., 31st battalion, and representatives from every company in the battalion. Those from a distance were: Capt. McGirr, No. 4 company, Durham; Capt. John Macdonald, No. 5 Co., Chatsworth; Capt. B. McKnight, No. 3 Co., Leith; Paymaster W. Masson, of Owen Sound; Major Rorke and Capt. Rorke, No. 7 Co., Clarksburg; Capt. Cleland and Lieut. McLean, No. 2 Co., Meaford. Col. Telford and Lieut. W. P. Telford, of Leith Company, missed the train at Owen Sound and were unable to be present.

At the deceased's residence a short funeral address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Baskerville from the text, "Godliness with contentment is great gain." First Timothy, VI-6. The order of procession was then formed as follows:

- Members of No. 6 company.
- 31st Battalion Band.
- Officers of the Battalion.
- Flesherton Masonic Lodge.
- Flesherton Brass Band.
- Eugenia L. O. L.
- Walkerville L. O. L.
- Delegates from various lodges in the district.
- Dundalk lodge Y. M. P. B. A.
- Boyno Water lodge Y. M. P. B. A.
- Horse and bearers.
- Mourners.
- Friends and neighbors in carriages.

The pall bearers were: Captains Masson, Cleland, McKnight and McGirr, Major Rorke and Lieut. McLean. At the grave the Masonic body took precedence and read their impressive burial service, after which services were also read by the Orange lodges present and the Y. M. P. B. A. No. 6 Co. of volunteers, commanded by Sergeant Davis, then fired three volleys over the open grave and the sad rites were ended.

The deceased gentleman will be sadly missed, as he was always ready to assist those in distress or those requiring his assistance. It was just one week ago Tuesday that Mr. Fields helped to lay away an old neighbor, Mr. James Beecroft.

The deceased has been a member of No. 6 company since its formation in 1867. Mr. R. McKnight, of Owen Sound, who was present, was commanding the company at the time of its inception and gave deceased his first battalion drill.

Two beautiful floral emblems were placed upon the coffin, on one of which was a card bearing the following: "In memory of our brother. Boyne Lodge, No. 17, Y. M. P. B. A."

By the death of Mr. John Field, Prince Arthur Lodge, A. F. & A. M., loses its first member, although it has been in existence for seventeen years.

In Memoriam

Lines written on the death of GEORGE STEWART.

A loving friend, a brother dear,
A tender brother we miss here
Great is the loss we here sustain,
But hope in heaven to meet again.
Ah! how patient when in suffering
When no hand could give him ease;
God, the helper of the helpless,
Saw his grief and sent him peace.
We loved our brother O how dear,
And would have wished him stay,
But let our Father's will be done,
Hushness in endless day.
Like spring's first flowers he passed away
Mid innocence and bloom,
To flourish in a brighter world
Far, far beyond the tomb.
He's gone, the loved and cherished one,
Like some bright star he passed away,
God claimed him and he sank in death,
Calm as the sun's expiring ray.
He's gone and left us here to weep,
To joy beyond our view,
And when like him we fall asleep
May we be happy too.
Farewell dear George I long farewell,
For we shall meet no more,
Till we are raised with Christ to dwell
On Canaan's peaceful shore.
ANNIE M. STEWART.

A farmer near Port Stanley has secured a yield of 51 bushels of wheat to the acre.

About midnight on Monday last the barn on Lot 3, Con. 6, E.H.S., Mulmur, owned by Mr. R. J. Noble, of Shelburne, was found to be in flames and was soon destroyed, together with the contents owned by Mr. Wm. Campaign. The last named gentleman has an insurance of $500, while Mr. Noble, the owner of the barn, is also supposed to be insured. —[Shelburne Economist.]

Mr. Fred. King has in his possession a document of rare antiquity in the shape of a deed made for the transfer of mill property in the County of Gloucester, England, in the reign of Queen Anne. The deed, which is written on parchment and is in a remarkable state of preservation, is dated the 29th day of September, 1709—the eighth year of the reign of Queen Anne. The property was then purchased by Mr. King's great grandfather and is still retained by the family. —[Orangetown Advertiser.]
