The March Cosmopolitan.

Elizabeth Bisland, who recently married a wealthy New York lawyer, opens the March number of the Cosmopolitan with an article on the Cologne Cathedral beautifully illustrated from photographs. Adam Badeau, the ex-Congress General to London, contributes some personal reminiscences of one of the grand dames of England at whose house he was a habituary, under the title of "Strawberry Hill and the Countess Waldegrave," and gives the latter history of the favorite residence of Horace Walpole and its distinguished owner. Strawberry Hill during the regime of the Countess Waldegrave, was the resort of the cream of English society, and Gen. Badaeu's article is full of interesting personal anecdotes and observations on the manner and customs of what is called society in England. Mr. Herbert, of Muckross, ex-Guardsman, ex-bon vivant, and friend of Royalty, contributes a paper on his life when officer on the guards, giving incidentally much information on the customs of the crack English regiment of a quarter of a century ago. M. H. de Young, commissioner for the World's Fair from California, has a most interesting article on expositions, sketching the history of their rise and progressive development, and proving as far as bald statistics can, that the Chicago Fair will surpass all previous ones. The illustrations accompanying this article are from pen of Harry Fenn and adequately display to the readers of architectural glories of the Fair buildings. Patience Stapleton's story, "The Trailing Yew," is concluded, and Oscar Fay Adams appears with a delightfully amusing and satirical sketch entitled, "An Archbishop's Unguarded Moment." Mrs. See's Mexican study is a gem of crystallized observation and color. Charles E. L. Wingate gives one of his careful and pleasant studies of the history of the stage in "Fair Imogen upon the Stage." The other papers in this number, are "A night with a Leopard," a serio-comic adventure in Ceylon; "Political Cartoons of Tenniel," the great cartoonist of Punch; and a paper by the Editor on the problem of "Aerial Navigation," which the Cosmopolitan has set itself to solve if it can. The departments are continued by Dr. Hale and Brauder Matthews.

Lady Bank.

From our own Correspondent. Miss and Master Steen, of Wawanosh township, are visiting friends at Lady Bank and Faversham. Mr. Julian Davidson has returned to Nebraska. This was his third visit in a few years. We are glad to see his genial face and kindly smile. The he has been long in the domain of Uncle Sam, I hear he has never taken the oath of allegiance. His heart evidently turns to his native flag, as magnet to the pole. He did not take his brother back with him. Many of those friends are glad to see him retain a good measure of health, and continue to fill a most useful post as grange manager at Faversham. Several of the residents are said to have had cancers (?) removed by the travelling Dr. McPherson. A crippled and needy man was around lately, having received the endorsement of a leading society man, but his profanity and agnostic pugnacity render him not a desirable inmate even for a night of any home that has a regard for God and fatherland.

It is desirable that those who move as leaders of secret societies should have something more than "brotherhood" before they give their information.

The Safest

AND most powerful alterative is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old are alike benefited by its use.

"My little boy had large scrofulous ulcers on his neck and throat from which he suffered terribly. He was continually worse under their care, and everybody expected he would die. I had heard of the remarkable cures effected by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and decided to have my boy try it. Shortly after he began to take this medicine, the ulcers commenced healing, and, after using several bottles, he was entirely cured. He is now as healthy and strong as any boy of his age."—William F. Dougherty, Hampton, Va.

"In May last, my youngest child, fourteen months old, began to have sores gather on his head and body. We applied various simple remedies without avail. The sores increased in number and discharged copiously. A physician was called, but the sores continued to multiply until in a few months they nearly covered the child's head and body. At last we began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a few days a marked change for the better was manifest. The sores assumed a more healthy condition, the discharges were gradually diminished, and finally ceased altogether. The child is livelier, his skin is fresher, and his appetite better than we have observed for months."—Frank M. Griffin, Long Point, Texas.
