A few days ago threshers were at Mr. Jno. Spicer's, in Egremont, and among the "hands" who assisted were Mr. Thos. Stewart and his hired boy. At noon Mr. Stewart sent the boy home to do the chores about his barn. The boy had only been absent a little while when he came running back with alarm depicted all over his countenance, and as soon as possible he told his employer and the other threshers that on reaching Mr. Stewart's house he had seen a rough looking tramp in the kitchen with Mr. Stewart's gun in his hand. On the boy making his presence known the tramp told him to "git" or he would blow his brains out. The boy lost no time in "gittin'" but just as he was going out of the door the tramp discharged the gun into the stove, blowing the end out of it and scattering the coals over the floor. The crowd of threshers, on hearing the boy's yarn, at once hurried off to the scene of the scare and on reaching the house found the stove as the boy had described, but the gun was in its place on the wall and no tramp was to be seen. Arming themselves with clubs and headed by Mr. Stewart, search for his tramping was begun but no traces of him could be discovered. Those who took part in the search are now beginning to think that the story was told by the boy to cover up the damage he had done while fooling with his employer's gun.—Mt. Forest Representative.
