The Grand Valley Tribune is the latest addition to our exchange list. It is a well printed sheet with good advertising patronage, lately started by Skelton & Co. May prosperity attend it.

A private letter from the hunters in Muskoka from this place, written on Thursday last, gives the information that only two deer had been secured thus far. Messrs. Mitchell and Bell were the fortunate ones.

A cough which persists day after day, should not be neglected any longer. It means something more than a mere local irritation, and the sooner it is relieved the better. Take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is prompt to act and sure to cure.

Editor Rutledge last week advised his correspondents to "leave out the little puns and personal allusions which are in any way offensive to those in question." We are glad to note this evidence of conversion in the Standard. May the good work go on.

The only permanent cure for chronic catarrh is to thoroughly expel the poison from the system by the faithful and persistent use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This wonderful remedy proves successful when all other treatment has failed to relieve the sufferer.

Referring to the item elsewhere from the Durham Chronicle, we wish to explain that it is not Mr. Thos. McArthur himself who is "70 by 45 ft., stone foundation and underground stabling," but his new barn that is referred to. The Queen's English was mutilated by the writer, but this explanation will make the matter all right.

A correspondent to the Durham Chronicle says: Mr. Thomas McArthur, of Flesherton Station, stands pre-eminent on our list of barn-builders on a gigantic scale, being 70 x 45 ft., stone foundation and underground stabling, every feature of the structure being on a massive and substantial scale. The stables are capable of accommodating from 35 to 40 head of horned cattle and from 8 to 10 horses, with box stalls for each class of animals in cases of emergency. Cellars or bins for storing different varieties of roots, so arranged as to economize time and labor in feeding. The granary is so arranged as to facilitate loading with the least possible cost of time and labor. In thrashing a straw and chaff mow obviates the necessity of exposing any portion of the fodder to the weather. This piece of art and mechanism was constructed under the direction of Mr. James Vause, aided by Mr. James Dow, every tenon and mortice being found perfect on the day of "raising."

Wanted—About 300 conscience-stricken subscribers to pay up arrearages, in order that the editorial conscience may not be taxed beyond endurance. We like to pay our own debts, but in order to do so the exchequer will have to be replenished by those who are owing us. The editor of this paper is not versed in writing dan notices and is doubtful whether his ideas given above are made sufficiently clear, but it amounts to this, politely put—please whack up.

Sad News from Honan. The Toronto Globe says: Mr. Hamilton Cassels, Convener of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church, received a cablegram from Tientsin, stating that Miss Lucinda Graham, M.D., died of cholera on the 13th inst., and Mrs. Malcolm, wife of Dr. Wm. Malcolm, died of peritonitis on the 22nd inst. Miss Graham was a daughter of Mr. Henry Graham, a well known business man of this city, and a prominent member of Westminster congregation. Mrs. Malcolm's maiden name was C. A. McArthur, of a much respected family in Galt. These ladies did excellent service and enjoyed the entire confidence of the committee and church, and their sorrowing friends will have the deepest sympathy of the whole community. The Miss Graham referred to was at one time a resident of Dundalk, and is a sister of Mr. Colwell Graham, merchant, of that place.

A young man at the Osprey fair let his young lady pay her way in while he climbed over the fence.

A farmer from near Singhampton sold a load of sanded oats in Collingwood. The next load he took in was confiscated by the buyer to recompense him for the sand in the first. It is thought the farmer was the heaviest loser.

Burglars forced an entrance into Pye & Walkers' tailor shop, Clarksburg, last Wednesday night, and stole a good overcoat, some tweed and other goods. Mr. Pye, who is township treasurer, had some of the township's money in his safe, but it wasn't meddled with. There is no clue.

A Christmas Book.

THE publishers of Toronto Saturday Night may well offer to place their Christmas Number of this year alongside anything produced anywhere. The book itself is extremely handsome. The cover is designed by Mr. John D. Kelly, of Toronto, and is one of the most brilliant and attractive things in the way of a cover ever done in the Dominion. Three pictures, instead of one, are given away with the Number this year, and "Charmed by the Song Bird" has only to be seen to be admired. The subject is a group of children listening to the birds. It was painted by G. A. Reid (whose famous pictures, "Mortgaging the Homestead" and "Foreclosing the Mortgage," our readers will remember having seen at the Toronto Fair) and is reproduced in the cheerful colors of real life by the newly discovered process called photo-lithography. It is a great picture. No. 2 Supplement, "Playmates," is a French pastel and a marvel of dainty coloring. No. 3 is black and white, called "A Difficult Trick," is the first popular reproduction of an old-fashioned steel engraving by T. Webster. On the expiry of the copyright The Sheppard Publishing Co. (Ltd.) at once had a plate made, of which they are proprietors, and what formerly could not be bought for less than ten dollars they now give with the Christmas Number free. As a study in faces it cannot be equalled. The three pictures have been admired by all who have seen them. The leading story in the Christmas Number is by Robert Barr, recently associated with Jerome K. Jerome in publishing the London Idler, but better known as Luke Sharp, whose writings made the Detroit Free Press famous. His story, One Day's Courtship, occupies fifteen pages. The scene is laid in Canada, and the illustrations are capital. Other stories are: The Shade of Helen, by Francis Morison; Le Loup Garou, by Clifford Smith; Why Johnnie Went Back, by Edmund E. Sheppard; The Passing of Bugs the Club Man, by Margaret Harvey, and An Heroic Imbecile, by Joe Clark. There are beautifully illustrated poems by J. W. Bengough and Reuben Butehart, Keppell Strange and James A. Tucker. There are local canvassers out (if not, someone should take hold of it) and our readers should see the book. It costs fifty cents (pictures and all), and is furnished in tubes ready for mailing.
