Farming and the Institute.

"To dig is easily learned, but to know how, when and where to dig most effectively, is the achievement of a lifetime."—Horace Greeley.

Once more the Farmers' Institute has met in our midst, and, as on former occasions, the most enlightened and successful farmers of the community have shown by their presence that they realize the benefits to be derived from association of the kind.

As in other walks of life, those most in need of the hints and interchange of experiences to be received from their fellows, were conspicuous by their absence. It is they who deery "book learning," "those college chaps who wish us to farm scientifically," and in every way possible say to the world at large, "farming is a thing of brawn, not brains." They say inferentially, if not openly, that the boy who is to run the farm needs no particular education, and then wonder at the lad's disgust and discontent with his prospects in life. They wonder at his desire to abandon a calling which meets with so little remuneration and so little respect from the outside world.

But who is responsible for this lowered respect, if not the man who believes that muscle alone is what is required in his labor? What is it that ennobles labor of any kind, but brain? I contend that the hard labor of the physical man, without the seasoning and directions of the intellect, tends to degrade and embroil; just as the long continued mechanical and brainless labor of the galley slave makes him in time nothing but a human automaton.

If the much desired "return to the soil," of which we hear so much now-a-days, is ever to be accomplished, it will be by the added dignity and the heightened plane which education and training will give to agricultural pursuits. One does not need to know much about farming to see that the men who are making a success of it to day, are putting much more into it than the mere labor of their hands. They are noting, recording and experimenting. This season they do not repeat the mistake of last season. They are reading, comparing notes and bringing business principals to bear upon their work, just as men in any line of life must do to be successful.

When the travelling dairy first made its rounds many women resented being taught how to make butter, forsooth! And seriously enough the worst butter makers were the most resentful. To this day it is a matter of wonder to butter buyers the difference in the quality of butter presented for sale by women with equal facilities. It may be that the uniformity of price paid alike for good, bad or indifferent butter (only two or three superlatively good butter makers in a community commanding an extra price) has something to do with the lack of endeavor to make a first class article, but I am inclined to think that the good butter maker would make good butter anyway.

I have heard it whispered by those who know that there are women who so far forget honesty as to make two varieties of butter—one for home use and another for the market—and try to sell back as butter what they originally bought as salt.

We are glad we have such a good and efficient agricultural college. We are glad we have a thriving Farmers' Institute and may the day soon come when, as Horace Greeley says, "the great mass of our farmers shall have come fully to realize that there is scope and reward in their own pursuit for all the knowledge and all the wisdom with which their sons can be imbued—rare geniuses as we know many of them are—then we shall have achieved the first great step toward making agriculture that first of vocations which it rightfully should be. But to-day it is the current, though unavowed belief of the majority—and of farmers even more than of others—that any education is good enough for a husbandman, and that any blockhead who knows enough to come in when it rains is qualified to manage a farm."

BRIGHT'S DISEASE MAY EXIST A LONG WHILE BEFORE IT IS SUSPECTED.

BROMORE, Jan. 14—Bright's disease has no symptoms of its own, and may long exist without the knowledge of the patient or practitioner, as no pain may be felt in the kidneys or their vicinity. There may be no albumen in the water and no tube-casts, yet Bright's disease may be present. It often develops suddenly and may run a fatal course before it is recognized. Bright's disease is thus recognized as a mysterious, every day malady, which is increasing at an alarming rate. Before Dodd's Kidney Pills were placed within reach of the public, these diseases were considered by medical men and the public to be incurable. Thanks to this popular remedy, thousands are now enjoying perfect health who, without it, would to-day be laid away in their graves.

Daniel Ritz, Proprietor and Publisher of the Hamburg, Ont., Independent says: "I was suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver trouble, I took a few bottles of Shiloh's Vitulizer and it cured me. I can heartily recommend it."

Epping.

Elections are over and we are yet alive. Of course the results are already known to those of your readers who are interested.

A fierce storm raged here all day Monday, blocking the roads considerably.

A very pleasant event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Mathewson on Tuesday of last week, being the occasion of their golden wedding, when all their living children, except one, were present, and a goodly number of grandchildren. In the course of the morning the following address was read to them by their eldest son, Mr. Hugh Mathewson, accompanied by many handsome gifts:

Epping, Jan. 8th, 1893.

DEAR PARENTS,—

It is with feelings of joy and gratitude that we have gathered together at your fireside to celebrate with you the fiftieth anniversary of your wedding day. When we reflect upon how few of those who join hands "for better or for worse" are permitted to enjoy half a century together we realize this is an occasion for especial thanksgiving to the giver of all good for his unceasing care over you during this long period. We ask you to accept these accompanying articles as mementos of this anniversary and as tokens of our grateful remembrance of your tender solicitude for us during the years that are gone. We know that you have already passed the allotted three score years and ten, but we trust that by reason of a length you may yet be spared to us for many years to come. We assure you of our continued loving devotion and we fervently pray that your declining years may be full of contentment and happiness.

Your loving children,

Mrs. R. Douglas, Mrs. J. Dawn, Mrs. H. Ball, Hugh Mathewson, George Mathewson, John Mathewson. The day passed off very pleasantly, the guests departed about midnight.

Mrs. H. Ball, of Creemore, accompanied by her son and daughter, Miss Hattie and Master Harry, are visiting at Mr. G. Mathewson's.

Miss Nettie Clark, of Seaforth, is at present visiting at Mr. Mathewson's. Miss Polly Gilray, of Vandeleur, spent Sunday at her home.

A Mother's Beautiful Child

Dragged Nearly to Death's Door by Severe Nervous Disease—Suffered Extreme Pain in the Head—Doctors Could Do Nothing—South American Nervine Called in at the Eleventh Hour and Restores to Health Little Annie Joy, of West Toronto Junction—The Great Remedy is Reducing the Death Rate of All Canadian Cities.

MISS ANNIE JOY, WEST TORONTO JUNCTION.

A bright little lad, or golden-haired girl, is the delight of your home. Whether you revel in riches, or know something of the privations of poverty, that child is all the world to you. It is no wonder that mother and father become anxious when sickness overtakes the little one.

The remedy, fathers and mothers, is near by. South American Nervine has been the means of giving back the bloom of youth to thousands of suffering little ones. It is not a medicine that buoys up the parents' hopes, only to have them in a short time dashed down again lower than ever. Whether with child or adult, it promptly gets at the seat of all disease, which is the nerve centres. From this fact it is peculiarly efficacious in the treatment of nervous diseases of man, woman or child.

A recent case is that as told by Mrs. M. A. Joy, of West Toronto Junction, whose little daughter Annie, aged 15 years, had been a sufferer for about two years. As with all mothers, no trouble and expense was spared in the effort to bring relief to the child. The little one suffered extreme pains in the head, so distressing at times as to render her completely helpless, sapping all her strength. The best skill of the most skilled physicians was called into request, but little Annie steadily grew worse. Becoming more hopeless and discouraged as the weeks went by, Mrs. Joy decided on trying South American Nervine as almost a last resort. Employing her own words she said: "I determined to give it a trial, although I felt it was useless."

To-day it is all happiness around that home, for before one bottle of the medicine had been taken, the mother tells us Annie commenced to show decided signs of improvement. The child has taken three bottles and has practically regained her natural health and vigor. There is nothing surprising in the fact that Mrs. Joy cannot speak too highly of South American Nervine.

Much was at stake, but this wonderful discovery proved equal to the emergency, and so it does in every case. Thousands of letters on file from well-known citizens prove this. For nervous diseases of young or old, from whatever cause, it is an absolutely infallible cure.
