DOT'S CORNER.

How dingy and—yes, dirty every housewife begins to feel her house is looking as the first warm sun of spring peers with inquisitive eye into every corner, and shows with merciless frankness what the friendly dullness of winter has hidden.

There is one month in the year too early for spring cleaning, but too bright and warm without, to leave any doubt but that the sun is doing his house cleaning and thereby making a disagreeable contrast with the griminess within which must perforce be put up with. One month when the stoves and stove-pipes become an eye sore, yet cannot be dispensed with, unless indeed one is so fortunate as to have that most sanitary and seductive thing—a fire-place.

During that month is the lull—the calm before the storm, which is about to break upon an unoffending household. Now is the hour when the careful housewife mutes her plans for future raids upon dirt in his strongholds. Her eye sees for the first time that worn spot in the carpet and she schemes to relegate it to some more retired nook and to bring the bright, unfaded and unworn portions where they will be of most service. She had not noticed before how the fires of winter have smoked the wall paper to a subdued dinginess, and that the lace curtains have acquired a tone intolerable to her sense of cleanliness. All this must be changed. Her mind becomes a revolving kaleidoscope of all she has seen and heard of new tints and patterns in wall papers, portiers and curtains, etc., coupled with an endeavor to make the vision fit her necessities and her purse.

During that month of do-nothingness the economical woman will make out a list of what she feels she needs and the cost of it, and if that exceeds her means she must of course make out those things which can be most easily dispensed with and wait and save up for the others. Here is where the benefits of a regular stated money allowance comes in.

For my part, I think there should be in every house-keeper's mind a definite "line of campaign" as far as possible with regard to such a domestic upheaval as spring cleaning in order to save herself and others much gall and bitterness. To be sure white-washers and paper-hangers never materialize when one wants them, and carpenters and tin-smiths are apt to have a disappointing tendency to have another engagement at just the moment when most needed, and the housewife has many petty worries and draw backs just when she is busiest.

It is a good plan to get as much of the spring sewing done during this month of preparation as possible. One young matron with seven little birds in her nest has at the lowest possible estimate 25 little garments to make with her own hands. These made in the plainest, most sensible way, will surely occupy a good deal of time as merely incidental work. But how glad she will be to see them in neat piles, finished long before they are needed. House cleaning then may be entered upon with a zest, when that brooding horror of summer clothes is off her mind, and if she makes it her aim she may be ready to greet spring's awakening in bursting bud and unfettered brook and to spend many golden hours "near to nature's heart." I don't know why it is, but when I see all the panorama of nature unfolded in shining days, pure sweet air, and bird songs pass by unheeded by the sons and daughters of men, because of pressing cares—real or imaginary, an old picture comes to my mind—a picture in an old "Pilgrim's Progress" of an old man down on hands and knees taking among straw and dirt and grasping greedily at a coin, with a shining angel standing holding a crown over him if he would but turn and look and receive it.

We mean to do it some day, some day, We mean to slacken this revered rush, That I wearing our very souls away, And grant to our loaded heart a hush That is only enough to let them hear The footsteps of angels drawing near.

We mean to do it, oh! never doubt, When the burden of daytime toil is o'er, We'll sit and muse 'till the stars come out As the patriarchs sat at the open door Of their huts, with a heavenward gazing eye, To watch for the angels passing by.

We promise our hearts that when the stress Of our life work reaches the longed-for close, When the weight that we groan with hinders less,

We'll loosen our thoughts to such repose As banishes Care's distracting din, And then—we'll call the Angels in.

The day that we dreamed of comes at length, When tired of every mocking quest, And broken in spirit and shorn of strength, We drop, in need, at the door of rest, And wait and watch as the day wanes on— But the angels we meant to call are gone!

A Boon to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spavin Liment completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, swellings, stifles and sprains.

A SWORN STATEMENT

Mr. G. H. Kent Swears to the Details of his Recovery.

An Interesting Document—A Complete and Concise Description of His Trouble—Rumors Discrediting his Story Thoroughly Confuted—A Remarkable Cure by a Valuable Agency.

From Ottawa Free Press.

Owing to the fact that a certain amount of discredit has been thrown on the statements recently published in the Free Press with regard to the recovery of Mr. G. H. Kent from death's door through the agency of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a representative of the paper has obtained from Mr. Kent a sworn statement with regard to the particulars of his disease and recovery. The facts are sufficiently startling to warrant the additional substantiation.

Following is the document:
 114 Cambridge Street, Ottawa, Ont., March 2, 1895

I, George Henry Kent, resident at 114 Cambridge street, Ottawa, and employed as printer in the British American Bank Note Printing Company, in the said city of Ottawa, do solemnly declare that I consider it a duty to myself and to my fellow-men generally to make a declaration as to the efficiency of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

1. That I found them in my terrible case of Bright's Disease from which I suffered for almost one year of the greatest medical value. I can say confidently and assure anyone interested or a sufferer, that I positively owe my life and present excellent health to the results brought about by their use. I was taken sick and confined to my bed on December 28th, 1893, and was successively treated for La Grippe, then Pleurisy, followed by Kidney trouble and latterly Bright's Disease. I lost the use of all my limbs, my entire body became swollen to a terrible size, and my skin became as hard and similar to leather, the pores all having closed up, and I suffered the most agonizing pain. I was subject to periodical spells of utter prostration and insensibility to a state of absolute coma. I was also a victim of dangerous convulsions in which my facial expression and other muscles would become severely contorted and tense.

2. My regular physician attended to me, and though medical consultations were held over my case by two city doctors, nothing could be done. My case grew gradually worse, and latterly was given up as hopeless. My wife, friends and neighbors were certain from what they saw and were told by the visiting doctors that I should die in a very short time.

3. My wife was casually reading a newspaper about this time and saw a description of an exact similar case in which a patient gave testimony of the relief and cure that had been effected on him by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I started to take them right away, and from the first pill I discovered a change for the better. After the first box I was wonderfully improved and at the end of the fourth I was sure I was to get well again. I continued taking them until the seventh box, and I can now positively declare that I am perfectly cured and able to do a day's work with any of my comrades in the shop, and Dodd's Kidney Pills undoubtedly cured me, because from starting to take them I took no other medicine what ever.

And I make this solemn declaration conscientiously believing the same to be true and by virtue of the ACT RESPECTING EXTRA JUDICIAL OATHS.

DECLARED before me at the city of Ottawa, in the County Carleton, this 16th day of February, 1895

Catarrh Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes.—One short puff of the breath through the e-blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agao's Catarrhal Powder diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. At W. E. Richardson's.

Relief in 6 Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight on account of its excellent promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by W. E. Richardson, Druggist.

Mrs. McPherson, of Claremont, claimed damages from the Township of Whithy for injuries received last September through a hole in the road which could have been repaired for about 25c. had it been known. Her lawyer asked for $1,500, but the council offered $400 as damages. After some parleying the plaintiff agreed to accept this amount if the council would pay a $26 doctor bill. But the council would agree to nothing more than $400, and it has been accepted and the matter is now ended.

"I TELL ALL MY FRIENDS."

A Lady of Shelburne, Ont., Permanently Cured of Indigestion After Using Two Bottles of South American Nervine
 —Glad to Let Everyone Know It.

Mrs. A. V. GALBRAITH.
 With indigestion it is not only that one suffers all imaginable torments, physical and mental, and perhaps, than anything else, an impaired digestion is the forerunner of countless ailments that in their course lead to the most serious consequences. Let the stomach get out of order and it may be said the whole system is diseased. When the digestive organs fail in their important functional duties, head and heart, mind and body are sick. These were the feelings of Mrs. Galbraith, wife of Mr. A. V. Galbraith, the well-known jeweller of Shelburne, Ont., before she had learned of the beneficent results to be gained by the use of South American Nervine Tonic. In so many words she said: "Life was becoming unbearable. I was so cranky I was really ashamed of myself. Nothing that I ate would go with me, and it does not matter what I eat. I have no enjoyment out of my meals. I am Mrs. Galbraith, and I have no money to spend on anything but my simple and common South American Nervine Tonic. I have been using it for some time, and my digestive organs are now in the best of health. I am no longer so nervous and nervous constitutions never fail to give relief in one day. For sale by W. E. Richardson."
