The Woman's Globe and a Hypnotic Incident.

On April 18th "The Woman's Globe"—for which the public had waited with more or less curiosity—came to hand. A very generous, voluminous affair of 40 pages it proves to be. But when we consider that over 100 women were engaged for a month in its preparation, we do not wonder at the variety, quantity and good quality of its contents. Our most prominent women artists have written the art editorials and designed the illustrations. On the page devoted to musical subjects there are letters from Miss Nora Cleuch, now studying the violin in Germany, and from other Canadian women studying music abroad.

Politics and foreign affairs have been touched upon with the light but non-committal hand of the spectator or mere outsider; book reviews there are which would neither make nor mar any book, and so on through a list of departments all in airy grace but neither power nor virility. But after all doubtless the object of its promoters has been achieved, viz: the addition of a handsome sum to the treasury of the West End Y. M. C. A., and a relief of its financial difficulties.

The woman's newspaper fad like most of our novelties is an importation from the great republic to the south of us. It is in no way a test of the ability of women to run a newspaper (that does not require to be proven) nor is it, I presume, intended to be.

In these days when people talk glibly of their "sub-consciousness," of their "under soul" and their second or various "personalities;" when recent alleged successful experiments in the use of hypnotism as a cure for insanity, reach us from those most audacious experimentalists in pathology—the French; when every Tom, Dick and Harry seeks to practise this occult power, one cannot but feel convinced that it is time the same restrictions which obtain in Great Britain and upon the continent, should be enforced here, viz.:—confining it to the medical profession.

Apropos I heard a very good joke the other day:—

Frank is a worthy Sunday school young man, who on a recent visit to Chicago, had acquired the power to hypnotise—or thought he had. He was eager to test his power upon his friends. An initial performance at his brother Herbert's house convinced him that Libby—Herbert's wife—was an excellent subject, the wicked Libby having averred that she felt a strange feeling something like electricity run up and down her spine when he made the passes and commanded her to sleep. Next night a family party is assembled; Frank is determined to get Libby under "control" and cover himself with glory; Libby, the prevaricator, is quietly making up her mind to dupe Frank and the whole party if she can only keep from laughing long enough, so with pretended reluctance she yields to the entreaties of all to immolate herself upon the altar of science. Libby shuts her eyes, Frank makes a few passes and the usual declaration that she cannot open them; it is hard to keep from opening her eyes and laughing in his face, but she succeeds, and after the first few minutes she has no difficulty in playing the part. Frank then commands her to sleep and amid "ohs" and "ahs" and "did you ever," and "yes, she's gone," and "now isn't that wonderful," Libby (the sinner) "sleeps" on, never twitching a muscle of her saucy little face. Frank feels that life has been worth living, when someone suggests he had better "wake her up." He makes the "up passes" and commands "wake up," but she does not wake; next he tries the "down passes," same result; then growing excited he yells, "Libby, wake up, wake up," and makes both kinds together; no use, she sits as immobile as a statue. Poor Frank grows weak with fright, but still continues to prance around and make every kind of "pass" known and unknown to science in front of his "subject," who still refuses to obey his voice. At last in desperation he calls "speak to her, Herb." Herbert calls, "Libby," in his most peremptory, husbando tone, while Frank sweats with his gesticulation or grows cold with apprehension. Just as some one is being despatched for the doctor, Libby, with a merry laugh, opens wide her eyes and convinces the most incredulous that she was not under "influence" for one moment, by describing all they said, all the exits and entrances and other happenings during the time of her supposed hypnotic sleep.

A valuable cow, belonging to Mr. John Diemert, of Egremont, died the other day under peculiar circumstances. It appears the animal swallowed a 3 inch wire nail, which, the veterinary says, pierced the stomach and reached the heart, causing death.

Louis Cyr's little daughter made her debut as a strong girl in Montreal last Monday night. She is only 7 years old and weighs 65 pounds, yet she lifted two dumbbells of 306 pounds, a 33 pound dumbbell above her head, a 150-pound one with one hand and two weighing 89 with one finger.

Catarrah Relieved in 10 to 60 Minutes.—One short puff of the breath through the blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves instantly, and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsillitis and Deafness. 60 cents. At W. E. Richardson's.

Khan's Weekly: The girls are to blame for most of this—the country girls especially. They won't marry a farmer, and the young sons of toil see the prettiest girls picked up by the pee-wee lawyers, cock-robin doctors and bob-olink preachers. As long as the girls prefer that kind of cattle to the horny-handed sons of toil they will never be allowed to vote if I can help it.

Geo. Jackson, of Peel, lost a valuable cow last week. It was noticed to be ailing for some time, and Mr. Jackson decided to kill it, as he thought it would never recover. He afterwards opened the beast and found a knitting needle lodged in its heart. The needle had passed through the stomach, diaphragm, lung and into the heart, and its passage was plainly noticeable through these organs.

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes.—Dr. Agnew's wr. Cure of the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Gorgonic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation, Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. E. Richardson.

Leonard Lewis is one of the latest additions to the gaol inmates, having been convicted by Police Magistrate Ryan, of South Grey on a charge of cruelty to animals. The prisoner is not well balanced mentally, and getting in a huff over some family affair vented his ire on three horses, refusing to give them food. When they got too weak to stand he would prop them up and then knock the props from under them.—Times.

A Boon to Horsemen.—One bottle of English Spain Lament completely removed a curb from my horse. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or caloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, swellings, stifles and sprains.

The new steamer designed and built by Capt. John Simpson, the veteran shipbuilder, of Owen Sound, for the North Shore Navigation Company, was launched Saturday morning. As she slid down the ways the little daughter of Mr. M. Kennedy, the mayor, christened her "City of Toronto." The steamer is a fine sidewheeler 162 feet long and 38 feet beam overgarths.

Relief in 6 Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by W. E. Richardson, Druggist.

Hotel keepers will do well to make a note of the following: Legal proceedings were entered against the proprietors of the Queen's and Commercial Hotels of Hespeler for $500 each, by the widow of James Crane, who was drowned one night last December a short distance from that village. The verdict given at the inquest was accidental death by drowning while under the influence of liquor secured at the Commercial and Queen's Hotels of Hespeler. Hence the action. The case was heard at Guelph. The jury found a verdict against the defendants with damages assessed at $500 in the case of one and $300 against the other.

Daniel Ritz, Proprietor and Publisher of the Hamburg, Ont., Independent says: "I was suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver trouble. I took a few bottles of S. Shilo's Vitalizer and it cured me. I can heartily recommend it."

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCe THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.
