Mr. Jas. E. Nicholson, Florenceville, N. B., Struggles for Seven Long Years with

CANCER ON THE LIP, AND IS CURED BY

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Mr. Nicholson says: "I consulted doctors who prescribed for me, but to no purpose; the cancer began to spread to my chin, and I suffered in agony for seven long years. Finally, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a week or two I noticed a Encouraged by this result, I persevered, until in a month or so the sore under my chin began to heal. In three months my lip began to heal, and, after using the Sarsaparilla for six months, the last trace of the cancer disappeared."

State Conducted Funerals.

In these days when so much is heard of the nationalizing or the taking over by the State of everything, from the preparation of our meals to the running of our railroads, there is perhaps nothing that would be more of a boon—especially to the poor—than the knowledge that after the turmoil and stress of existence they and theirs would be sure of decent burial.

Since in death all men are equal—since it is of concern to each and every member of a community that the dead should be disposed of—and since if this sad duty were not attended to by the friends, the State would of necessity for its own good be obliged to shoulder the responsibility—it would seem just and right that the purse-proud should on the one hand be deprived of the opportunity of making undue display, and on the other hand that the poor should not be obliged to strain their slender resources to the breaking point in order to lay away their dead with becoming honor and respect.

Here is a struggling family which misfortune has overtaken—nay, misfortune and her whole brood seem to have turned their entire attention to this one humble home, for troubles have a way of never coming singly. I need not give instances, for every one can furnish them out of his own experience; and I myself have known of half a dozen terrible trials to visit one home in a year, any one of which trials would seem enough to have put out the star of hope forever. But to return to our unfortunate family: For a twelve month they have struggled against a sea of troubles; each new trial is met with a dumb despair which might be mistaken for callousness; they have turned to every point of the compass to look for the means to provide nourishing food, suitable medicines and medical aid; their future is already heavily mortgaged, when death steps in and carries off one, two or even three—the expense so far has been for naught and they have still to face the necessarily heavy expense of interment. Must not the money which should go to buy bread for the living, be appropriated for the decent burial of the dead? Is it not true that there is many a poor old body stinting herself that there may be a snug little sum laid by to pay the undertaker?

Nor would the conduct of funerals by the State interfere with those little tributes of sentiment which friendship loves to pay, love could still heap its roses upon the cold heart and strew the narrow couch with sphopel, but where such items were missing, there would still be the conventional trappings of woe and the poor man would have the satisfaction of knowing that his dead were as reverently laid away as his rich neighbors' and no huge bill to stare him stonily in the eye until by much pinching and hardship he is enabled to pay it.

Nor would this care for the ordinary citizen prevent the nation showing special honor on occasion to the mighty dead. Those renowned in song and story—those who have led the nation's sons to victory—those who have eminently served their country in science, in statesmanship, in discovery and invention, in the arts and in philanthropic movements, might, as now, be accorded all the honors which pomp and splendour could lend to their obsequies and the private citizens feel no grievance thereat. The Singhampton Argus has given up the struggle and ceased to exist. It was a mistaken idea to think a newspaper could be made a financial success with such a limited field to operate in. We understand Mr. Mills has received a tempting offer to go to India which he seriously thinks of accepting.—Greenore Star.

HOLSTEIN, ONT., July 18.—This morning five broke out in the saw and flour mills owned by W. Y. Petrie. The flames so enveloped the whole building and quickly spread to the lumber yard adjoining where hundreds of thousands of feet of lumber were piled, all of which was consumed. The loss will amount to $15,000.

A fine mare, worth $120, belonging to Mr. Peter Coutis, of the townline Luther, met with a peculiar and fatal accident on Thursday last. The mare stepped on one end of a stick, the other end of which penetrated her thigh so deeply that Dr. Tanner, V. S., was sent for. He treated the injury and thought the mare was doing nicely, when, as she was drinking at a spring on Monday, a blood vessel in the wound parted and the animal bled to death in a few minutes.

Relief in 6 Hours.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise and delight on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by W. E. Richardson, Druggist.

The Chesley Enterprise explains a case of bad spelling, or a bad case of spelling, as follows: "We announced last week that Mr. A. S. Goodeve, agent of C. P. R., would sell tickets for 'births' on the Mackinaw, and upper lake trips. We made a typographical error in the word 'berths' by putting it 'births' and we hasten to correct the error least there be a general rush to the corner drug store by several of our citizens who would pay fabulous prices to get possession of a 'birth' ticket."

A few days ago, when engineer Hayward was returning from Meaford with the mail, he ran into a flock of sheep on the track near Stayner, giving them a gentle hoist and landing them against the fence. When New Lowell was reached, however, an old ewe alighted from the cow-catcher and walked down the track, having ridden about five miles. She was caught and upon examination no broken bones were found.—Stayner Sun.

Heart Disease Relieved in 30 Minutes.—Dr. Agne's wr Cure of the Heart gives perfect relief in all cases of Gorgonic or Sympathetic Heart Disease in 30 minutes, and speedily effects a cure. It is a peerless remedy for Palpitation, Shortness of Breath, Smothering Spells, Pain in Left Side and all symptoms of a Diseased Heart. One dose convinces. Sold by W. E. Richardson.

Mr. James Johnston of Toronto, boiler inspector, is a well known gentleman whose word would not be questioned in any particular by those who know him. He related a strange story to some friends here the other night after his return from a trip up the lakes. About 9 o'clock one evening last week, while on a tour of inspection, Mr. Johnston, in company with several acquaintances, was on a tug running from Club Island to French River. When off Bustard Islands all on board distinctly heard the noise of a tug exhausting, and presently a large raft of logs suddenly appeared in front. The captain immediately checked down, to avoid running into it, and after locating the lay of the raft ran along the edge of it for about a mile, all the time hearing the noise of the tug, which they supposed was towing the logs, and every minute expecting to sight it. The noise of the tug was audible and the logs were quite discernible to every one on board, and five or six anxious people were watching to avoid running into the raft, when suddenly the noise ceased, and the raft disappeared. The party looked at each other in utter bewilderment, but none could explain the phenomenon.—Parry Sound Canadian.

FULL OF ENCOURAGEMENT FOR ALL WOMEN.

In Bed 5 Months—Had Given Up All Hope of Getting Well—A Remedy Found at Last to which "I Owe My Life."

Science has fully established the fact that all the nervous energy of our bodies is generated by nerve centres located near the base of the brain. When the supply of nerve force has been diminished either by excessive physical or mental labours, or owing to a derangement of the nerve centres, we are first conscious of a languor or tired and worn-out feeling, then of a mild form of nervousness, headache, or stomach trouble, which is perhaps succeeded by nervous prostration, chronic indigestion, and dyspepsia, and a general sinking of the whole system. In this day of hurry, fret and worry, there are very few who enjoy perfect health; nearly everyone has some trouble, an ache, or pain, a weakness, a nerve trouble, something wrong with the stomach and bowels, poor blood, heart disease, or sick headache; all of which are brought on by a lack of nervous energy to enable the different organs of the body to perform their respective work.

South American Nervine Tonic, the marvellous nerve food and health giver, is a satisfying success, a wondrous boon to tired, sick, and overworked men and women, who have suffered years of discouragement and tried all manner of remedies without benefit. It is a modern, scientific remedy, and its wake follows abounding health. It is unlike all other remedies in that it is not designed to act on the different organs affected, but by its direct action on the nerve centres, which are nature's little batteries, it causes an increased supply of nervous energy to be generated, which in its turn thoroughly oils, as it were, the machinery of the body, thereby enabling it to perform perfectly its different functions, and without the slightest friction.

If you have been reading of the remarkable cures wrought by South American Nervine, accounts of which we publish from week to week, and are still sceptical, we ask you to investigate them by correspondence, and become convinced that they are true to the letter. Such a course may save you months, perhaps years, of suffering and anxiety.

The words that follow are strong, but they emanate from the heart, and speak the sentiments of thousands of women in the United States and Canada who know, through experience, of the healing virtues of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harriet E. Hall, of Waynetown, a prominent and much respected lady, writes as follows:—

"I owe my life to the great South American Nervine Tonic. I have been in bed for five months with a scrofulous tumour in my right side, and suffered with indigestion and nervous prostration. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I cannot recommend it too highly."

Tired women, can you do better than become acquainted with this truly great remedy!
