Eugenia.

From our own Correspondent.

A feeling of sadness pervades this community on account of the death of Willie Bell, which occurred at his mother's residence, Eugenia, on Monday evening, Nov. 7, another victim of that fatal disease, consumption, at the early age of 25 years. His sufferings were very severe but he bore them with christian fortitude and death had no terrors. His sorrowing mother and brother and sister have the sympathy of all in their trouble. They are comforted by the assurance that with their dear departed one all is well.

Pin Not Your Faith to Rumors

It appears that some rumors have been current in this vicinity affecting the good name of Mr. R. J. Henderson, agent for the Sun Savings and Loan Co., to the effect that Mr. Henderson was in financial difficulties with the company. This damaging rumor was undoubtedly the outcome of the Shallow lake horse fiasco from which Mr. Henderson emerged without a stain. At all events there was not a word of truth in it, as the following letter from the manager of the company to Mr. W. Moore of this place will prove. We learn the company have instituted proceedings for $2000 damages against the Shallow Lake livery man, and the writ has been served. Following is the letter received by Mr. Moore:

Wm. Moore, Esq., Flesherton.

DEAR SIR.—We learn to day by report from your town that Mr. R. J. Henderson's name was referred to in your presence relative to an action against him by a livery man at Shallow Lake, which reflected very much upon Mr. Henderson's reputation and character. Now I have to say in this matter that this action was entirely without cause, as I believe Mr. Henderson was perfectly innocent of even a thought of doing wrong in connection with the matter. Mr. Henderson has been connected with this company for some time and his work has been satisfactory, he has gained the confidence of the company and is still connected with us, and we take this opportunity of repudiating any misrepresentations that may have been made concerning him and to state our feelings towards him as an agent for the company. Yours Truly
W. P. PAGE.

John McAllister is a well known character in Dundalk; now John he it known, runs quite a "fowl" ranch, consisting of chickens, turkeys, geese and ducks. As the ranch is located near the elevators what John pays for rations for his fowl is a mere bagatelle. There is no more profitable poultry ranch run on the continent of America. Last week one of John's ducks strayed into Sinclair's elevator for its customary meal. A load of grain was awaiting to be dumped into one of the lower bins of the elevator. While the aforesaid duck was working hard at this grain to extend its crop grain and duck was let into the bin together. For forty-eight hours it had all the grain it wanted; load after load was emptied on it. Two days after when the grain was being elevated into the loading bin the duck was elevated as well and surprised the elevator man with a quack! quack! as it dropped out. No other duck except one of McAllister's could come through that and live.—Herald.

Mr. Dryden's official majority in South Ontario is 151.

Keep this a Secret

We are occasionally enjoyed by a buyer of an engagement or a wedding ring to "keep this a secret." We ALWAYS do so; we divulge nothing of the kind; our interest in such sales being gauged not by sentiment but by hard cash, our profit. Strict confidence is therefore invaluable. Parties buying from us can do so privately if desired. In Engagement Rings we are carrying a large stock and of greater variety than heretofore and at prices ranging from $1.50 to $15.00. We have recently added a new line of Wedding Rings in 10k. gold, which are bound to be favorites.

WATCHES

I am just now making a specialty of Watches, and if you are desiring a timepiece—or even if you don't need one very bad—it will pay you to buy now while prices are at the bottom with McGinty. I have some fresh, new goods in Japanese Stick Pins, Epworth League and Oddfellows Guards, Ladies' Skirt and Belt Holders, fancy Hat Pins, etc., the nicest, noblest things up to date. Just come in and look at them, anyway.

Any farmer who allows a stray animal to remain about his premises and gives no public notice of it through a newspaper does what is wrong to the owner who may spend many days driving about the country looking for it. This may be prevented by prompt advertising.

A despatch from Creemore says: While returning from New Lowell on Saturday night, and when almost home, Samuel Gowan, blacksmith, of Glencairn, met with an accident, which cost him his life. Workmen had been rebuilding a bridge near Stephens' mill at Glencairn, and had all the flooring torn up, a road to one side of it, through the water, being used. In darkness Mr. Gowan got on the road leading to the bridge, and horse, rig, and man plunged headlong into the river. Gowan fell fifteen feet into about five feet of water, and when taken out about ten minutes later by some boys who heard the noise, life was extinct. He had received a terrible blow on the side of the head.

It is not generally known that persons finding lost articles are legally bound to restore them to the owner if they know him. To hold them or to secrete them is under the new criminal code regarded as theft and punishable accordingly. A reward cannot be successfully demanded. If any trouble or expense is necessarily incurred in connection with the found articles, such expense can be recovered. The newspaper is the proper medium by which to discover the owner and the finder is expected to advertise at once.

Mr. Edward Shaw, of Collingwood township, had nine sheep killed and six worried to death by two dogs.
