From the Philippines

The Philippines have put up a good fight. It is something wonderful the number of strong entrenchments they have constructed throughout the country. During these lively times a person has to put up with a good many things that are very disagreeable, such as lying out on the hard ground at night and eating pretty tough meals. The other night about 9 o'clock the Major came to me and said: "I see that two dead men have been forgotten and are still back in the woods where they were shot during this day's fight. So will you and another fellow take your arms and take along four Chinamen and bring in the dead men." We did not get back until about 12 o'clock that night. The coolies carried the bodies on litters but soon got tired and we had to help back the corpses into camp. I can say it was a pretty lonely job. And the anxiety of it! I was a little afraid we might run into some Filipino sharpshooters. We found the bodies as they had been shot, with their uniforms on. The soldiers of their company had picked them up and laid them in a small house and then notified the hospital corps to come after them.

I have had my fill of war! I have seen some of my best friends shot down—men whom I knew very well and who familiarly called me "Ed." Poor Claud Beecher! He worked in our grocery store up to the day he left for Helena. His father came to Claud and I before we left Great Falls and said: "You young men are going a long way from home and you will have a lot to put up with; maybe have your complexions so blackened with the hot sun of the Philippines that you will never be able to get white skins again." But the young man is dead. The poor fellow's last words were, "Boys, it's all up with me, and God forgive me the sins I have committed on this earth."

I have not received any wounds as yet, but the light is not nearly over. The Philippines are still hanging out.

MALOLO, April 7th.

Things have been rather quiet for the last three days. The men are pretty well run down after their long tramp of fifteen miles through swamp, over rough roads and at night lying down on the ground without any covering whatever. Their clothes and bedding were far in the rear. The heat was something awful. I had one day's experience of it and I know what it is. I was never so much overcome with the heat before as I was on that day. The Philippines are familiar with the country and it was pretty difficult for our men to keep up with them. When we got them running we endeavored to keep them going, so the whole way through it was fight for a while, then on the move after them. The insurgents carry very light loads, wear no shoes and throw away everything possible. They had trenches dug in many places and these were used to cause us delay in our advance. Now and again our men would run into a trap and therefore have a lot of casualties. I have seen many dead and others who had their legs badly fractured. I remember one young man whom I helped carry off the field. We carried him on a litter to the hospital. A man came running to us. It was the young man's brother. I will long remember his look of anxiety as he inquired as to the extent of his brother's injuries. A few hours afterwards the second brother was shot through the wrist and both were in hospital together, but both have recovered. One is disabled for life, having lost one of his eyes. He was a handsome looking fellow and was a great favorite among the officers. Our soldiers have proved themselves very brave and one cannot but admire them. A person will better understand the meaning of the word Patriotism after he has served his country in a similar capacity to that in which our soldiers have during this war in the Philippines. It is amusing as well as serious to see our men dash over the fields on the dead run, yelling like a pack of wolves. This would simply paralyze the insurgents with fear and they would turn tail and run like deer. I watched the charge across to the woods from La Loma church, and I tell you it was exciting to see our men running and yelling right into the face of certain death, as one would think.

We have quite a lot of Chinese working for us, but they are like other nationalities, they have bad habits. We can scarcely keep them with us, as they want to get back to town to get their opium. ED. STRIN.

Priceville

From Our Own Correspondent

Our usually quiet little burg was the scene of considerable excitement last Monday. A number of distinguished (?) and unexpected visitors were the cause of the furor. The first gentleman to arrive was the celebrated "Gipsy Bill," the itinerant tinker. He was followed by the famous "corn cure man." Then to complete the show three Italian musicians and a monkey made their appearance. This latter contingent received an enthusiastic welcome. The youngsters fairly howled with delight at the extremely comical antics of the monkey, nor were the bigger folk much behind in their risibilities. A guard of honor escorted the monkey and his friends to the outskirts of the town. Coppers are at a premium.

On Wednesday of last week Mr. David McIntyre of Balsam Valley had an experience that he will likely remember as long as he lives. He had just put on a load of hay at Mr. George Haw's and was climbing up the stake in front of the rack to get on the load, when the horses ran away. Unfortunately the stake broke and Dave fell back on the tongue. After a short but perilous ride in this dangerous position he slipped to the ground and a wheel just grazed the side of his head. The horses dashed in their mad career through a set of bars and a gate before they reached the road. Then they galloped towards home, turned in the gate and raced across the fields to the barn, where they stopped. Strange to say not a cent's worth of damage was done to wagon or horses and not a pound of hay wasted.

Rev. J. S. Humphreys attended the district meeting in Markdale last Monday and Tuesday.

A Narrow Escape

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Grotton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on her lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Sold by all druggists. 50c. and $1.00. Guaranteed price refunded.
