Six Indian's Drowned

On Saturday afternoon six Indian's of the Cape Croker reserve were drowned in McGregor Harbor, almost in sight of home. These Indians, whose names were W. E. Lamorandiere, Xavier Nadjewon, Louis Johnston, Joe Martin, George Mitchell, and Louis Nadjewon, were timbering for J. P. Newnan, lumberman, of Wiarton near Sydney Bay. It was their custom to sail over a distance of three miles every Monday morning and to return the following Saturday afternoon. The weather during the past week has been stormy, and there have been very heavy seas. It is surmised that a squall struck the boat when quite near home, and, as the ropes were frozen, the Indians were unable to lower the sails, and the boat capsized. Three of the Indians clung to the boat, but soon perished in the water. Their bodies, however, drifted to the shore, The bodies of the others have not yet been recovered. There is universal mourning on the Cape Croker reserve, as this is one of the saddest accidents in it's history, and four of the men were married. W. E Lamorandiere, who was drowned, was the Secretary of the band and postmaster of the reserve, having been appointed to this position about three weeks ago, after the death of his father.

The scene of this accident is only a few miles from the spot where the Jones went down twoweeks ago, taking 29 persons to a watery grave.

Geo. Sharp of Dundalk has sold out his livery business to Thos Halpin of Mt. Forest.

John Edwards, a young Englishman, met with an unfortunate accident one day last week while cutting wood in Mr. Wm. Jack's bush, 10th con. Proton, with whom he is employed. He was sawing with Mr. Jack and in raising himself from the ground on which he was kneeling, he rested one hand on a block of wood behind him, not thinking that a boy, who was with him, was splitting it up. The axe connected with the hand and removed three fingers, two clean and clever and the third left attached by a small portion of flesh. Dr. McWilliam dressed the wound which was very painful. Luckily it was the left hand and he still has the little finger and thumb.—Herald.

The Township of Colburne, Huron County, is in a peculiar predicament regarding its Goderich and Guelph Railway debentures. A bonus of $61,000 was granted thereto, under a by-law passed by the electors, and debentures were issued accordingly. When these were offered for sale it was discovered that in some way, the words "each and every year" had been accidentally omitted from the by-law, and no one would buy the debentures, not even private individuals to whom they were personally offered How to rectify the matter is the problem, and until this is done the debentures are valueless. Some one suggests the submission of another by-law, but it is doubtful if it could be carried.

Mrs. Charles Wandt was summoned to appear with her children before Police Magistrate Telford of Hanover where Mr. Matthew Richardson, special agen for Childrens Aid Society, had laid a charge against her for neglecting her children and by setting them a bad example and thus exposing them to the danger of forming evil habits. Mr. Richardson was informed by the Children's Aid Society at Owen Sound to take the case in hand and on Friday last she and the children appeared before Magistrate Telford and after a thorough investigation, sufficient evidence was given to corroborate the charges. Mr Richardson secured the kindness of Rev. (Mrs) Miller to accompany the children to the Children's Shelter at Owen Sound while he returned to his home at Flesherton. It is to be hoped that this incident will have a salutary effect, and that others who are none too careful in bringing up their children may see tha wisdom of doing so —Hanover Post.
