Letters From The Boys In Khaki

Corp. S. J. McKenna of the 19th Batt. writes his brother here as follows :

Sandling Camp, August 21.

The weather is terribly hot. Was out to-day from 4.30 a.m. until tonight at 6 —a long day. The whole contingent was extended in three lines across about ten miles of country. Our new general is in charge now—General Turner, V.C., D. S.O. and C. B , from the first contingent. General Steele, who came over with us, is taking charge of this military district.

The zepps have passed our camp twice within the week. They dropped calling cards at Ashford, Dover and Sowerbury. They are getting close. Our aeroplanes are around all day, but at night the zeppelins have the advantage.

We were reviewed last Monday by the Princess of Teck and Sam Hughes. The king and Kitchener are due any day.

We are going on manoeuvres Monday until Saturday—quite a long time to be away from camp.

I have a chum whom I worked with in Edmonton at the front. He came over with the 9th battalion and got a commission with the 12th Royal Scots He is trying hard to get me one, too, but at present I am quite satisfied to stay with the bunch. I just turned down my third stripe, as I would have to go to another platoon. Still, I will soon get it, as there is another vauancy. I have the best bunch of boys in the world and I would hate to leave them. They would do anything for me or would go anywhere, so I am quite satisfied to be with them when we into action.

There are quite a lot of English and Scotch troops near here. We often pass them or manoeuvre near them. They are pretty decent chaps. They like our cigarettes and tobacco. As they only get 25c a day they cannot afford to spend much. They are no better trained than we are. That old story about an English sentry saying "Halt, who goes there ?" and the answer, "None of your d—d business," and "pass, Canadian, all is well," is no longer anywhere near the truth. True, our discipline is not just as strict as in the English regiments. We are too independent for that, but we get there just the same. As for intelligence, our average soldier is away and above his fellow English Tommy, and we have some fine brainy chaps in the ranks who could easily hold down a commission. Our platoon officer, Mr. Pepler, is a prince, only about 22 and very popular. When we march easily he is just like one of the boys, calls me Mac, and is a general all round good fellow. He was a private in the Queen's Own when war broke out. He volunteered, but his people would not let him go and got him a commission instead. His brother is one of the best all round broncho busters in the West and is a private with the artillery here. Pep. is always broke but happy—just like the rest of us, for that matter. Our major is rotten. He has the best company in the battalion, but treats it rotten. Our supernumerary is named Harmon. The boys nickname him Snuffy the Cabman. You know the character of the Gayety. The officers caught on and all he gets now is Snuffy. When the boys holler "cab, sir," or "Hold my whip," he knows who they mean, but he can't say much. Our Colonel is o. k. but a little fussy. We have Punk Thompson from Hamilton, one of their best footballers, as an officer ; also Laddie Cassels from Varsity and a great array of celebrities, athletic and otherwise ; two king's prizemen, Clifford and Hawkins.

There is a hill near the camp, in fact we are at the foot of it, and we climb it about every second day to dig trenches. We can work as navvies when we go back. There are trenches all around England, although few people know it. Bomb throwing is the big game at present. We throw bombs about forty yards. They do a lot of damage. They are timed for four seconds from the time you light the fuse until it goes off. We all have to take the course.

We have an Irishman in our hut, Connolly by name. When asleep the other day he rolled over, leaving a portion of his anatomy uncovered. One of the boys put some strawberry jam on the exposed part. He did not wake up during the process, but when a bee lit on the jam and stung him he awoke with a yell.

Mr. Brown moved and sec. by Mr. Cameron that the account of Owen Sound Sun $6.60 for advertising bridge tenders be paid.—Carried.

Watson $1.60, Colin McLean $7.00, Malcolm McLean $3.00. S. Martin $4.00, D. Symes $1.00, L. Genoe $4.80, Mr. McPhail $1.20, D. Hincks $1.00.—Carried.

Mr. Graham moved sec. by Mr. Cameron that the Clerk arrange a day to meet the Euphrasia representatives in regard to settlement of expenditure of money and statute labour on town line A & E.—Carried.

Mr. Aldcorn moved sec. by Mr. Cameron that the Reeve and Clerk execute deeds of the original 12th Con. line to the parties adjoining the same in accordance with by-law authorizing the same—and upon execution by Mr. Robert Graham of deed he be paid $200.00 for deviation through lots 22 and 23, Con. 12.—Carried.

Mr. Cameron moved sec. by Mr. Graham that in accordance with petitions submitted to this Council by residents of Eugenia and Ceylon villages the Hydro Electric Power Commission be requested to submit estimates of cost of light and power to the petitioners.—Carried.

Council adjourned.

A Rosedale woman who was attending one of the midway shows on Saturday was astonished to notice when leaving the show her purse lying upon the grass. Investigating, she discovered that a half circle had been cut in the lower part of her silk covered ankle, making it an easy matter to extract the purse. The seats on which the woman and her friends had been sitting were elevated and the thief had evidently crawled under during the performance. Detectives state that it is the first instance they have had reported.
