AN INCIDENT OF THE FLOOD

So rapidly did the waters on the Saugeen rise after the ice went over the new dam on Friday afternoon, that a lady residing near the foundry who had come down town shortly before, found hersef shut off from her home. Seeing her predicament, Mr. Harvey Miller got out his paint wagon, and loading the fair one aboard, started out, like a Chinese mandarin, to wheel the damsel across. While we are told every lady uses paint in some form or another, yet few of them can boast of getting greater benefit from a paint wagon than this. — Walkerton Herald-Times.

Two valuable race horses belonging to J. T. Saint, of Wallaceburg, were drowned when they plunged through the ice into Sydenham River.
