PORTLAW

Mrs. W. G. Jamieson had the misfortune to fall in her barn and sustain a badly sprained knee on Wednesday of last week. Her mother, Mrs. Hill, is with her and we all hope Mrs. Jamieson will soon be around again.

On Friday afternoon last the teacher and pupils of Wareham school had quite an exciting time when fire broke out under the furnace. When discovered neighbors rushed to the school and with buckets soon had the fire under control. It was a close call all the same, as it was quite a hole was burned in the floor.

The Women's Association held their February meeting at the home of Mrs. James Pedlar on Tuesday February 9th. There were nineteen members and twelve visitors present, one new member being added to the roll. An additional $50 was donated to the church fund. The Association purpose holding a chicken pie social in the hall on the 29th inst.

Those who have their ear to the ground claim they can hear the merry music of wedding bells.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Taylor visited for a few days with the latter's sister at Honeywood.

IN MEMORIAM

TURNER — In loving memory of our dear Janie, who entered into eternal rest on February 25, 1925.

From her earthly home and circle
God has taken one we love.
Borne away from sin and sorrow,
To a better home above.
Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away;
Memories that will always linger,
While upon this earth we stay.

—Sadly missed by her Loved Ones

ALFALFA A VALUABLE CROP

Apple growers have found that in order to get sufficient color and maturity for the fruit, it is necessary to keep the orchard in sod, breaking up only at intervals of five or six years. And for this purpose the best crop to use is alfalfa, according to W. B. Somerset, chairman of the Ontario Marketing Board, and a practical grower in the Burlington district.

Alfalfa, being perennial in nature, remains in the ground year after year Its roots penetrate the soil much deeper than those of the apple tree and, therefore, do not consume much of the moisture supply available to the tree. Furthermore, the roots open up the soil, make it porous, thereby allowing the air to penetrate the soil, which in turn stimulates bacterial action.

This plant is capable of taking nitrogen from the air and storing it in the roots of nitrates. All good orchardists apply nitrate fertilizers early in the spring, to promote rapid growth, and to stimulate blossoming. A crop of alfalfa is an extremely cheap source of nitrate supply. Alfalfa, being the heaviest yielder of all legume and grass crops, may be cut twice a year. The cuttings, which are allowed to remain under the trees, make an excellent mulch, which conserves moisture and keeps weeds down.

A GRAND SLAM

It remained for Fordwich, a little village near Harriston, to put her name on the map. A young woman of the neighborhood, for some real or imaginary reason, slapped a farmer's face in a hardware store there on New Year's eve. The latter entered an action for assault, and the case was tried at Fordwich two weeks ago when the young woman was fined $10.00 and costs and bound over to the peace for twelve months on a $200.00 bond. Fordwich was filled to the neck the day of the trial. Reporters and camera men from the leading dailies in Ontario were there, as well as over 500 from the surrounding country. This may be a bad precedent, as others of the female element who want some notoriety may go into the punching business, and there is no telling who the poor victim may be.

A BIG TREE

The Hollows correspondent seems to have started something when he wrote last week of the cutting of an ancient maple in this vicinity.

Mr. Wm. Gardener and sons, of Gilford, cut an elm tree for Mr. J. F Hambly recently which seems very worthy of mention.

This tree measured seven feet, ten inches in diameter, and twenty feet in circumference ot the stump. Its height was over one hundred and four feet. There were twenty-seven single cords of wood in the trunk of the tree and ten cords or more in the top, which will be cut by circular.

Mr. Gardener has been cutting wood for fifty years and this is the largest tree he has ever cut. He had to have two saws welded together in order to cut it.—Bradford Witness.

Chinese in Toronto raised $10,000 for war purposes at a meeting. That may seem like quite a sum, but it should be remembered that when Canada was at war there were years when we spent over a million per day. War's appetite for money is the kind that is always passing back its big dish for more.
