F. R. Oliver Donates Trophy For Junior Ball

Hon. F. R. Oliver has donated a lovely silver trophy to the local junior baseball loop. It is expected to be in Durham shortly and the local management hope to have it on display here for a short time. The boys are figuring that when they have it here they might as well keep it, and will work toward that end in the group play-offs. Farquhar has always had a great interest in baseb and when the junior group was formed offered a trophy for competition, which was gladly accepted by the league directors. A few years ago the donor played baseball for Flesh-ton and was adept at the game.

A CHALLENGE TO RURAL CEMETERIES

We erect very fine monuments to the memory of our war dead. We hold memorial days in their honor. Their bodies lie buried in foreign lands, but their graves are tenderly cared for by loving hearts and willing hands. Should we not do as much for our pioneer ancestor by beautifying their last resting place?

They came to this country in its youth, and labored under a great many difficulties clearing land, building homes and making the foundation of communities today. Is it not to our credit to cherish their memory by keeping tidy and respectable their burial grounds?

In large towns the cemeteries have caretakers, and plot holders pay for perpetual care, but in these country cemeteries it is to the interest of the people and the credit of the community to beautify such grounds.

One of these cemeteries is situated on the South Line, Artemesia, and is known as Evergreen Cemetery. At one time this cemetery was tenderly cared for by an old Scottish gardener, who loved the beauty of flowers and who spent long hours working among them in this cemetery. After his death, no one took the same pride and interest in it which he had and it became neglected.

Two years ago interest was again aroused, as relatives of deceased persons buried there and plotholders, met and planned voluntary bees. Since that time a voluntary bee has been held twice a year for the purpose of levelling graves, cutting grass, trimming trees and giving the cemetery a general clean-up. A couple of large flower beds have been made and roots, bulbs and plants already there were moved. A memorial tree has been planted by a garden designer, once an old neighbor of persons now deceased and buried in this cemetery.

In 1948 an appeal for funds to make improvements, was sent out to plotholders and relatives. This met with a generous response, and from that assistance, fence post and gates were painted, fences repaired, more bulbs purchased and planted for spring bloom.

Plans are under way at the present time to erect a sign bearing the name of the cemetery. This matter is being given special attention by an appointed committee.

What has been accomplished in the South Line community cemetery, could be done in any community.

WEED CONTROL

Today, crop loss from weeds costs Canadian farmers at least twice as much as taxes on tillable land. Weeds not only lessen the value of your crops but they also take up moisture and food elements from your soil.

Fighting weeds successfully calls for a lot of practical experience, and an intimate knowledge of the problems posed by the various types of weeds. Before starting an "all-out" weed control campaign, you could probably save yourself a lot of work by consulting your nearest Experimental Farm or Agricultural College. They will gladly put the findings of their studies in successful weed control at your disposal.

Should your problem be a financial one, this bank cordially invites you to discuss it with the friendly manager of our nearest branch. His financial "know-how" is yours for the asking, too. He has helped many others—perhaps he can help you.
