ADDRESS TO THE SABBATH SCHOOL CON-VENTION, HELD IN MOUNT FORZST THE FIRST DAY OF MARCH, BY THE REV D. M'LEOD, B. A , OF PRICEVILLE.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: I have been appointed to address you on this subject by your committee without my knowledge or consent. and was surprised to learn that it was because I was an old piper. It appears, then that the love for the Great War Pipes of Scotland is so deep rooted in the committee as to rufluence them much in their decision on the question of Sabbath School Music. While the subject is a very interesting one, it is difficult. To prepare reading matter for the young is acknowledged to be no easy task. Doubtless, much is written intended as reading and music for children.

"Hi! diddle diddle, The cat and the fiddle. The cow jumped over the moon. things should continue, the committee would have selected to address on this and bereaved widow-and to lull subject one of the old fiddlers around me. But, it seems a change is desirable, and therefore' they have chosen a Highlander from a Highland conmusical instrument of the Highlanders Let us see then, what are the peculiarities of Pipe Music, and we will find 4th.-It is instructive. 1. SIMPLICITY. -It is possible to upon which may be played, with ac the whole range of pipe music. It is not, then, too much to ask that tunes intended for so delicate and immature an instrument as that formed by the vocal organs of a child, should be so simple that they might be sung with ease. Many tunes of such a character are to be found in the Hymn Book (Gall & Inglis) which we chiefly use, and are deservedly popular. Take for example the tune set to the words "Jesus lover of my soul;" Its simplicity puts it within the reach of young and old.
