

A WHOLE FOREST OF STONE TREES.

From twenty to thirty-five miles from Denver, between Cherry Creek and Manning Creek, the New Orleans and Denver forces struck an unusual obstruction, being nothing less than a buried forest. The trees are all petrified and agitated, are of all sizes, and lie buried at various depths, from ten to twenty feet, which is as deep as any excavation was made by the workmen. They came upon these relics of a bygone age in a half a dozen localities, and have met with not a little difficulty on their account. The trees are very perfect, and it will be taken out nearly whole if suitable machinery were employed.

BURNS AND SCALDS—IMPORTANT REMEDY.

Four years since (S. p. 77) the "American Agriculturist" recommended the use of Bicarbonate of Soda, that is the common soda, for most, if not all, burns. Since then frequent experiments and observations of the opinions of physicians, and the best medical journals, have more than confirmed all what we then said. As burns and scalds are always liable to occur, and as the remedy, though simple, has proved extremely useful, it should be fixed in the minds of every one. The soda, and the carbonic acid so readily set at liberty from it, have anæsthetic, antiseptic and disinfecting properties—all highly beneficial for burns.

For slight burns cover all the injured part with a layer of powdered soda. For deeper burns, but where the skin is not broken, dip linen rags in a solution made by dissolving one-third of an ounce of the soda in a pint of water; lay the rags on and keep them moist with the solution. For very severe burns, followed by suppuration (formation of pus), apply the rags in the same way, keeping them moist, but frequently exchange them when dry for fresh ones, and carefully wash off, with the soda solution, any matter that has accumulated under them, so that it may not be absorbed into and poison the blood. Leading European medical journals give numerous instances of such, by very severe treatment, extensive burns of every severe character have healed rapidly, leaving little scar.

WARREN FROM NEWSPAPERS.

Many years ago one of the severe winters when there was much hard frosts among the poor, a city paper suggested that old newspapers should be used for a substitute for blankets and coverlets. This brought up the journal a great deal of harmless advice from other papers, but it brought comfort to many a poor family. It is the matter of old clothing, especially, we are apt to associate warmth, with weight, and do not consider that there is no warmth in the covers themselves, but that they merely prevent the heat of the body from passing off. A few newspapers laid over the bed will keep you much warmer than some of the heavy woollen blankets. We not possess newspapers as a substitute for blankets and coverlets, but it is one of the best things that it is well to have in the family. We may, by the use of old newspapers, cover a child, or a man, or a woman that is not well, and we may, by the use of them, keep a child, or a man, or a woman that is not well, and we may, by the use of them, keep a child, or a man, or a woman that is not well.
